

LLRN6

POLAND 2023: WARSAW/LODZ

Networking book

25-27 of June 2023
www.llrn6poland.uni.lodz.pl

Register now at llrn6.conrego.pl/registration

Strategic Partner

Main Partner

Linklaters

Patronage

Partners

Donors

Publikacja dofinansowana ze środków budżetu państwa w ramach programu Ministra Edukacji i Nauki pod nazwą Społeczna Odpowiedzialność Nauki / Doskonała Nauka, nr projektu DNK/SP/547359/2022 kwota dofinansowania: 73 700,00 zł, całkowita wartość projektu: 103 700,00 zł.

HALEFOM ABRAHA

(no e-mail provided)

University of Oxford

Halefom Abraha is a Postdoctoral Researcher at the Bonavero Institute of Human Rights (University of Oxford). He researches the impact of AI and algorithms on privacy and data protection. His research interests include AI Regulation, Cross-border Data Access in the law enforcement context, Data Protection, Digital Sovereignty, and Internet Regulation. Halefom has recently submitted his PhD research in Cross-border Data Access at the University of Malta. His research has been published in international journals such as the International Journal of Law and Information Technology, International Data Privacy Law, and Information & Communications Technology Law.

JEREMIAS ADAMS-PRASSL

(no e-mail provided)

University of Oxford

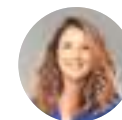

Jeremias Adams-Prassl is Professor of Law at Magdalen College in the University of Oxford, with a particular interest in the future of work and innovation. He read law at Oxford, Paris, and Harvard Law School, and is the author of over 100 articles and books, including most recently Humans as a Service: the Promise and Perils of Work in the Gig Economy (2018) and Great Debates in EU Law (2021). Since April 2021, he has led a five-year research project on Algorithms at Work, funded by the European Research Council.

EINAT ALBIN

einat.albin@mail.huji.ac.il

Hebrew University of Jerusalem

Dr Albin is an associate professor of labour law at the Hebrew University of Jerusalem and the Academic Director of the Minerva Center for Human Rights. Her work focuses on labour law in service economies, and on the challenges posed to labour law by new technologies. She has a special interest in the rights of persons with disabilities within the workplace.

KONSTANTINOS ALEXANDRIS POLOMARKAKIS

k.alexandris-polomarkakis@exeter.ac.uk

University of Exeter

Dr Konstantinos Alexandris Polomarkakis is a Senior Lecturer in Law and co-director of the Centre for European Legal Studies at the University of Exeter. His research interests centre on the impact of policy-making on the trajectory of labour and non-discrimination law, especially at the European level. Konstantinos's research has been published in a number of leading generalist and specialist journals, and his monograph is under contract with Oxford University Press. He is Co-I in a number of projects, one of which looks at the links between UK agriculture and care visas and migrant workers' vulnerability to exploitation.

ANTONIO ALOISI

antonio.aloisi@ie.edu

IE University Law School, Madrid

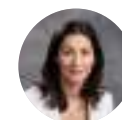

Assistant professor of European and comparative Labour Law at IE University Law School, Madrid. His research focuses on the impacts of innovation on labour regulation and social institutions. In 2020, he was awarded an EU-funded Marie Skłodowska-Curie fellowship. Before joining IE University, Antonio was a Max Weber fellow at the European University Institute (EUI), Florence, and a visiting researcher at Saint Louis University, USA. He holds a PhD in Business and Social Law (2018) from Bocconi University, Milan. He has co-authored "Your Boss is an Algorithm. Artificial Intelligence, Platform Work and Labour" (Hart Publishing 2022, with Valerio De Stefano).

PNINA ALON SHENKER

pnina.alon@torontomu.ca

Toronto Metropolitan University

Pnina Alon-Shenker is an Associate Professor in the Department of Law & Business, Ted Rogers School of Management at Toronto Metropolitan University, cross-appointed to the Lincoln Alexander School of Law. She is the founding academic director of the Law & Business Clinic. She earned her LL.B. from Haifa University, LL.M. from the Hebrew University and University of Toronto, and S.J.D from University of Toronto. Alon-Shenker's research interests centre on labour and employment law with an emphasis on workplace discrimination and diversity, the aging workforce, employment status determination, and forms of employee representation and voice.

KATARZYNA ANTOLAK-SZYMANSKI

kantolak@swps.edu.pl
 SWPS University

Dr. Katarzyna Antolak-Szymanski is an associate professor of law at SWPS University in Warsaw, Poland. Qualified attorney. Mediator certified in Poland and USA (NJ). She is a director of Legal Clinic at the SWPS University. Her primary areas of research include mediation in employment matters, labor law and civil procedure. She has made some comparative research on court-connected mediation in the United States. She also serves as a law clerk in the labor and social insurance section of the Polish Supreme Court. She has numerous publications in the area of ADR and labor law.

KALINA ARABADJIEVA

(no e-mail provided)
 European Trade Union Institute

Kalina Arabadjieva is Researcher in the Economic, Employment and Social Policies Unit of the European Trade Union Institute, with a PhD in labour law and collective labour rights. She works on gender equality in the workplace, including relevant EU legal frameworks on equal pay and work-life balance, as well as on EU just transition policies and the relationship between labour law and environmental law.

TAKASHI ARAKI

araki@j.u-tokyo.ac.jp
 The University of Tokyo

(no bio provided)

ANE ARANGUIZ

a.aranguiz@tilburguniversity.edu
 Tilburg University

Ane Aranguiz is Assistant Professor in European Labour and Social Security Law at the Private Business and Labour Law Department of Tilburg Law School. She is also a guest professor at the University of Antwerp and the Free University of Brussels.

DIAMOND ASHIAGBOR

D.Ashiagbor@kent.ac.uk
 University of Kent

Professor of Law at the University of Kent, UK. Diamond is an interdisciplinary legal scholar whose work spans labour, equality, race and colonialism, regions (European Union and African Union), economic sociology of law. Her most recent edited book was Re-imagining labour law for development: Informal work in the global North and South. She was previously Professor of Labour Law at SOAS University of London, and is a member of the editorial board of European Law Open. Diamond has been the recipient of a Fernand Braudel Senior Fellowship; a Leverhulme Trust Research Fellowship; and a British Academy Senior Research Fellowship.

MEIR ASSARAF

email.meir@gmail.com
 Netanya Academic College

Meir Assaraf is a Lawyer and a Notary, advocating and lobbying for unionized workers. Research-and-teaching fellow at the Netanya Academic College law school. Member of the judiciary arbitrary tribunal of the "Histadrut", the major trade union federation, since 2020. Captain (res.) in the Military attorney general core Israeli Defense force. Partner at Benjamin Meir Cohen&Co.Law firm. Practices as an advocate of public sector employees - the IDF -Military, civilian workers union, the Border and immig. Authority workers union, rep. unions of the Israel Museum workers, the Tel-Aviv Museum and more. Since 2017 representative of the Israel Teachers Union in the Israeli parliament.

JAMIE ATKINSON

M.Carr@mmu.ac.uk; J.Atkinson@mmu.ac.uk
Manchester Metropolitan University

I teach Employment Law. My research interests are in labour law regulation and gender equality and the workplace. My recent work has focused on how new fathers reconcile work and care. I have contributed to the section on the UK in the International Review on Leave Policies and Related Research for the last few years, which is produced annually by an international network of academic collaborators.

JOE ATKINSON

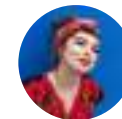

(no e-mail provided)
University of Sheffield

Dr Joe Atkinson is a Lecturer in Law at the University of Sheffield, where he researches and teaches on labour law and human rights. He holds a PhD in law from University College London, and law degrees from the University of Oxford and London School of Economics. Joe has been a visiting researcher at New York University School of Law, and is an Associate Fellow of the Sheffield Political Economy Research Institute. Before academia he worked in Parliament as a Senior Researcher and Political Advisor.

KATIE BALES

(no e-mail provided)
University of Bristol

Dr Katie Bales is a Senior Lecturer in Law at the University of Bristol. Her research centres on forced migration, labour and the welfare state. She is currently writing her monograph focusing on state organised unfree labour within the UK. Katie is the current co-director of the Centre for Law at Work at Bristol, the Faculty lead for the 'Perspectives on Work' group, working group member of the Sanctuary Scholarships Team, Trustee for Bristol City of Sanctuary and organiser of the Bristol Queer Parents Collective.

PAMHIDZAI BAMU

pamhidzai.bamu@gmail.com
WIEGO

Pamhidzai Bamu is a Zimbabwean labour lawyer who holds an LLB, LLM and PhD from the University of Cape Town. She is currently the Law Programme Coordinator for Africa at Women in Informal Employment Globalizing and Organizing. Her research interests include domestic work, precarious employment arrangements and the extension of protection to workers in informal employment, particularly in the global south.

KEVIN BANKS

kevin.banks@queensu.ca
Queen's University

Kevin Banks a law professor at Queen's University and Director of the Centre for Law in the Contemporary Workplace. He is the Editor-in-Chief of the Canadian Labour and Employment Law Journal. His research publications address: freedom of association and the common law; relationships between economic globalization and labour and employment law; the influence of originating political struggles on workplace equality law in North America and the European Union; the purposes, role, governance, and potential influence of international and transnational labour law; and the extent and causes of gaps in the workplace accommodation of persons with disability.

HADARA BAR-MOR

barmorh@netvision.net.il
Netanya Academic College

Professor Hadara Bar-Mor (J.S.D.- Tel-Aviv) is a legal scholar at the Academic College of Netanya (Israel), where she is the dean and teaches Corporate Law and Labour and Employment Law. Since her first degree thesis, Professor Bar-Mor has carried out research projects and published books and articles, part of which in English, on labor and employment law, corporate law and nonprofit law. She has been the editor of law journals in Hebrew and served as a lay-judge in the National Labour Court in Israel.

MICHAŁ BARAŃSKI

(no e-mail provided)

University of Silesia in Katowice

(no bio provided)

KATHERINE JANE BARRETT

jane.barrett@wiego.org

WIEGO

Jane Barrett is the Director of the Organization and Representation Programme of WIEGO (Women in Informal Employment Globalizing and Organizing). The Programme works internationally to support membership-based organisations of women workers in the informal economy in their organizing and representation work. Implementation of ILO Recommendation 204 lies at the heart of this work. Prior to taking up her position in WIEGO in 2016, Jane worked in the formal trade union movement in South Africa and internationally for 34 years. During this time, Jane was responsible for leading many collective bargaining processes, including with South Africa's national transport parastatal company Transnet.

ALBERTO BARRIO

alberto.barrio@jur.ku.dk

University of Copenhagen

Alberto Barrio is a postdoctoral researcher at the Legal Studies in Welfare and Market (WELMA) centre of the University of Copenhagen, within the framework of the project Reshaping Work and Welfare in the Digital Age. Alberto's research focuses on how platform work may affect the regulation of labour and social security protection, and how it contributes to a rethinking of the central pillars of the Welfare State. Prior to joining the University of Copenhagen, Alberto obtained a PhD degree from the Faculty of Law at Tilburg University.

TANIA BAZZANI

Bazzani@europa-uni.de

European University Viadrina

Dr. Tania Bazzani is a researcher of social security and labour law at the European University Viadrina, Frankfurt Oder, where she currently teaches European Labour Law in German, and Italian Labour Law in English. She is also collaborating as a legal expert to a study on telework for the European Commission. Her most recent research focuses on platform work, sustainability and social security for the self-employed. Dr. Bazzani is particularly passionate for European and comparative employment policy. At this regard, she was awarded the Marie Curie Individual Fellowship for a project in this field developed at the Humboldt-Universität zu Berlin.

JANICE BELLACE

bellace@wharton.upenn.edu

University of Pennsylvania

Professor. Member of the ILO's Committee of Experts from 1995-2010, president of the ISLSSL 2018-2021. Former president of ILERA. Currently, judge of the World Bank Administrative. Most recent books "Labour, Business and Human Rights Law" (Bellace & Haar, 2019), and "The Right to Strike in International Law" (Jeffrey Vogt et al, 2020). Most recent chapters "The 1998 ILO Declaration: Impacting Corporate Labor Behavior by Responding to Globalization, in "Globalisation and Labour Standards," ed. Kimberly Elliott (2022), and "Re-thinking Labour Law in the 21st Century," in "The Future of Work," ed. Adalberto Perulli and Tiziano Treu

LUCAS BENTO DE CARVALHO

lucas.bentodecarvalho@gmail.com

University of Montpellier

Lucas Bento de Carvalho est professeur _ la faculté de droit et science politique de Montpellier et membre associé du COMPTRASEC. Ses champs de recherche portent principalement sur les relations individuelles et collectives de travail, en privilégiant les approches croisées entre droit du travail et droit civil best.ulrich@baua.bund.de

ULRICH BEST

Federal Institute for Occupational Safety and Health (BAuA)

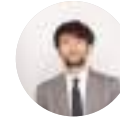

Ulrich Best is a researcher at the Federal Institute for Occupational Safety and Health (BAuA), Germany's federal research institute for health and safety at work. At the Federal Specialist Office for Occupational Safety and Health (within the BAuA), he is a member of a team tasked with calculating the German "inspection quota" of all businesses inspected by the provincial OHS agencies. A social geographer by training, he has also worked on the recognition of foreign credentials and taught at universities in Germany, the UK and Canada. He currently teaches at the Berlin School of Economics and Law (HWR).

MARCO BIASI

marco.biasi@unimi.it

University of Milan

Marco Biasi is an Associate Professor of Labour Law at the Department of Legal Studies "Cesare Beccaria" of the University of Milan, where he teaches, inter alia, "Comparative Labour Law". He was Visiting Scholar at the Law School of Stanford University in 2022, and at the ILR School of Cornell University in 2015. He published several articles, edited four books and authored three monographic works in matters related to Italian, European and Comparative Labour Law.

ADELLE BLACKETT

adelle.blackett@mcgill.ca

Faculty of Law, McGill University

Adelle Blackett, F.R.S.C., Ad. E., is Professor of Law and the Canada Research Chair in Transnational Labour Law and Development at the Faculty of Law, McGill University. She holds a B.A. in History from Queen's University, civil law and common law degrees from McGill, and an LL.M. and a doctorate in law from Columbia University. An elected fellow of the Royal Society of Canada, She is widely published in the field of transnational labour law, with a focus on decolonial approaches. She has recently chaired the federal task force reviewing the Canadian Employment Equity Act.

ALYSIA BLACKHAM

alysia.blackham@unimelb.edu.au

University of Melbourne

Alysia Blackham is an Associate Professor at Melbourne Law School, the University of Melbourne. Her research focuses on age discrimination at work and the consequences of ageing for workplaces, using empirical evidence to cast new light on legal problems. From 2017–22, funded by an Australian Research Council Discovery Early Career Researcher grant (DE170100228 "Addressing Age Discrimination in Employment"), Alysia explored the barriers to effectively addressing age discrimination at work. The results of this project are available at <http://ageworks.info/>, and form the basis for Alysia's 2022 monograph Reforming Age Discrimination Law: Beyond Individual Enforcement (OUP).

ALAN BOGG

alan.bogg@bristol.ac.uk

University of Bristol

(no bio provided)

VLADIMIR BOGOESKI

v.bogoeski@uva.nl

University of Amsterdam (UvA)

Vladimir Bogoeski is Assistant Professor in European Private Law at the University of Amsterdam Law School. His research is situated at the intersection of private law, labour law and political economy of labour. His current research focus is on how (private) law structures work relations in food production, specifically in the agricultural industry in Germany and the Netherlands. His research draws on critical approaches to law such as law and political economy, economic sociology of law, critical agrarian studies, participatory action research (PAR), and law and social movements.

GIANLUCA BONANOMI

(no e-mail provided)
University of Brescia

(no bio provided)

SILVIA BORELLI

silvia.borelli@unife.it
University of Ferrara

Silvia Borelli is a Labour Law Associate Professor of University of Ferrara (Italy). Silvia Borelli belongs to the Editorial Committees of Lavoro e Diritto and of Rivista giuridica del lavoro (Journal members of the International Association of Labour Law Journals) and takes part in the Réseau académique sur la charte sociale européenne et les droits sociaux. She collaborates with the European Secretariat of the Italian General Confederation of Labour (CGIL) and, since 2020, has been included in the ETUC Taskforces on Fair Mobility and Mandatory Human Rights Due Diligence.

SASKIA BOUMANS

s.boumans@uva.nl
UvA

Saskia Boumans is a PhD Candidate at the interdisciplinary institute AIAS-HSI of the University of Amsterdam and interested in industrial relations, collective bargaining and political economy.

DARKO BOŽIČIĆ

d.bozicic@pf.uns.ac.rs
Faculty of Law University of Novi Sad

Graduated from Faculty of Law University of Novi Sad where he also earned an LLM and defended his doctoral dissertation “A Right to Work in Digital Economy”. Currently is employed at his home university as a research and teaching assistant at the Department of Labour law, after initially starting his professional career in the corporate sector. As an expert he participated in several legislative processes in Serbia and Montenegro and is engaged as conciliator with Serbia’s Agency for the Peaceful Settlement of Labor Disputes. An area of his scientific interest is the impact of IT on working rights and obligations.

ELISABETH BRAMESHUBER

elisabeth.brameshuber@univie.ac.at University of Vienna

Elisabeth is Professor of Labour and Social Security Law and Deputy Head of the Institute for Labour and Social Security Law at University of Vienna. In her research, besides collective bargaining in a changing world of work, she focuses on information and consultation rights, and fundamental rights and labour law, with recent publications on the European Pillar of Social Rights, amongst others. Together with Luca Ratti and Vincenzo Pietrogiovanni, she edits a book on the AMW-Directive. She is a member of the Austrian Federal Ministry of Labour and Economy’s ‘Rat Neue Arbeitswelten’ (Council on the New World of Work).

JUDITH BROCKMANN

judith.brockmann@uni-kassel.de Universität Kassel

Judith Brockmann is a full professor for economic law, social law and labour law at the Universität Kassel. In her research, Judith is interested in interactions between labour law and social security law in German and EU law, also in a comparative law perspective. Current projects are focusing on questions of just transition and collective labour law (e.g., collective bargaining in the digital age, short time work and advanced training opportunities, ecological performance of businesses and co-determination rights). She is member of the European INLACRIS network and the Franco-German research group GEFAC. For further information and publications see <https://www.uni-kassel.de/fb07/iwr/wirtschafts-sozial-und-arbeitsrecht>

DOUGLAS BRODIE

douglas.brodie@strath.ac.uk
University of Strathclyde

no bio provided)

STAN BRUURS

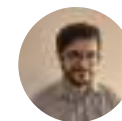

stan.bruurs@kuleuven.be
KU Leuven

Stan Bruurs is a doctoral researcher and teaching assistant at the Institute for Labour Law, KU Leuven. His field of research is European Labour Law and in particular smart mobility, the European labour market and fair mobility. His dissertation assesses the European approach to transnational labour in the new world of work focusing on the provisions of the free movement of workers and services (posting) and private international law.

RICARDO BUENDIA ESTEBAN

ricardo.buendia@manchester.ac.uk
University of Manchester

Lecturer in Employment Law at the University of Manchester School of Social Sciences. I also explore how the emergence of atypical forms of work, such as platform work, invites us to rethink the idea of freedom as one of the philosophical foundations for labour law. My latest publication explores this issue in the context of platform work in the European Union. See Buendia Esteban, R. M. (2023). Examining recent initiatives to ensure labour rights for platform workers in the European Union to tackle the problem of domination. Transfer: European Review of Labour and Research. Twitter @RicardoBuendiaE

NICOLAS BUENO

nicolas.bueno@unidistance.ch
UniDistance Suisse

Nicolas Bueno is assistant professor at the faculty of law of UniDistance Suisse. His research on law and economic globalization. In his current project, "Economic Ideologies of Work and Labour Rights", he developed a post-market logic for international employment law. As a practitioner, he led strategic disputes in business and human rights at the Center for Constitutional and Human Rights (ECCHR) in Berlin and advises NGOs on human rights due diligence laws.

MARTIN BULLA

m.a.s.bulla@icloud.com
Trnava University, Faculty of Law

Martin Bulla, PhD. is an assistant professor at the Department of International Law and European Law of Trnava University, Faculty of Law (Slovakia). Specialised primarily in private international labour law, European and international labour law, European migration law and EU gender equality law, he is a co-founder and board member of the Labour Law Association of Slovakia and a member of the ILO's CEELEX network. He interned at UNI Global Union in Nyon and was a guest researcher at Masaryk University and the Amsterdam Institute for Advanced Labour Studies (AIAS).

DAVID CABRELLI

david.cabrelli@ed.ac.uk
University of Edinburgh

David Cabrelli is the author of one of the leading student textbooks on Employment Law in the United Kingdom. He has recently produced a book for the general public on Employment Law, which has been published under the auspices of OUP's popular Very Short Introductions book series. His research has been cited with approval by the Hong Kong High Court and the UK Supreme Court, as well as the Federal Court of Australia. His work is also frequently cited by the Law Commission and the Scottish Law Commission, as well as the UK House of Commons Library.

SERGIO CANALDA

sergio.canalda@ub.edu
University of Barcelona

Lecturer in Labour and Social Security Law at the University of Barcelona. From 2009 to 2022 he has taught undergraduate and postgraduate courses at the UPF as well as at the Universitat Oberta de Catalunya. He has participated in six state-funded R&D projects and two European projects, publishing the results of his research in several scientific journals and publishers such as Hart Publishing and Springer. While an important part of his research focuses on collective bargaining and social dialogue, he is currently also developing other lines of research in social economy, employment policies and green transition.

PERRINE CARRÉ

perrine.carre@eui.eu
European University Institute

Perrine Carré is a PhD researcher in labour law at the European University Institute (Florence, Italy). Her work focuses on worker participation in environmental policies.

AUDE CEFALIELLO

acefaliello@etui.org
ETUI

Aude Cefaliello joined the health, safety and working conditions unit at European Trade Union Institute (ETUI) in October 2020 after completing her PhD at the Law School of the University of Glasgow. She focuses her research on Occupational Health and Safety with a socio-legal and comparative approach. Her current research projects cover: work-related psychosocial risks, strategic litigation, and the risks associated with the digital transition (e.g., artificial intelligence).

CONSUELO CHACARTEGUI

chelo.chacartegui@upf.edu
University Pompeu Fabra

Dr. Consuelo Chacartegui is associate professor at the Pompeu Fabra University (Barcelona). She is member of the Research Group in Labour Law and Social Security Law (GREDTISS) in the UPF. Her current research includes the areas of human rights at work and environmental sustainability.

COLLEEN CHEN

(no e-mail provided)
University of Melbourne

Colleen Chen is a Research Fellow at the University of Melbourne. She has a Juris Doctor from the University of Melbourne and a Master of Data Science from the University of Adelaide. From 2019-2021, Colleen led policy development and industry engagement for the Defence Artificial Intelligence Centre within the Department of Defence and served as the Secretary of the IEEE P7010 working group for Ethical Artificial Intelligence and Autonomous Systems. 'A Fair Day's Work: Detecting Wage Theft with Data' at the University of Melbourne.

OLGA CHESALINA

chesalina@mpisoc.mpg.de

Max-Planck-Institute for Social Law and Social Policy

Olga Chesalina, PhD, LL.M. is researcher at the Department of Foreign and International Law at the Max Planck Institute for Social Law and Social Policy. Her main research interests comprise social and labour law, European Union law as well as legal comparison.

YEONMIN CHO

ymcho@kctulaw.org

KCTU Legal Center, Institute of Workers' Rights (IWR)

Yeonmin Cho is a labor lawyer at the Korean Confederation of Trade Unions (KCTU) Legal Center and a senior researcher at the Institute of Workers' Rights (IWR). She provides legal counsel to trade unions on labor law matters and represents them in various labor law disputes. Her current focus includes the application of the recently ratified International Labour Organization (ILO) fundamental conventions to Korean labor relations and expanding the concept of employer in collective bargaining.

FLORE CLAUS

(no e-mail provided)

Ghent University

Flore Claus is a PhD student at Faculty of Law and Criminology of Ghent University, where she works at the research department of Social Law under the supervision of Professor Alexander De Becker. Her research examines the right to lifelong learning as part of a sustainable career, with a specific focus on vulnerable groups such as individuals working in micro-enterprises. In her presentation, she will delve into the right to lifelong learning as an essential aspect of building a sustainable career, with a particular emphasis on the perspectives of the European Union and the United Nations.

EUSEBI COLÀS-NEILA

eusebi.colas@upf.edu

Univ. Pompeu Fabra

Associate Professor and Academic Secretary of the Department of Law at the Univ. Pompeu Fabra (Barcelona) and member of the consolidated Research group in Labour and Social Security Law (greDTiSS). He is also a lecturer in the Master's Degree in Legal Practice and the Master's Degree in Labour and Social Security Law at the Barcelona School of Management. More information available at <<https://www.upf.edu/web/eusebi-colas>>

HUGH COLLINS

h.collins@lse.ac.uk

London School of Economics

Hugh Collins studied law at Oxford and Harvard. He has held permanent positions at Oxford and London School of Economics. His scholarship is concerned with employment law, human rights law, contract law, and legal theory. Recent work includes Labour Law 2nd edn (Cambridge UP)(with Ewing and McColgan) and the edited collections Philosophical Foundations of Labour law (with Mantouvalou and Lester) and Foundations of Indirect Discrimination Law (Hart)(with Khaitan).

SEAN COONEY

s.cooney@unimelb.edu.au
Sean Cooney

Sean Cooney's research interests concern international and comparative labour and employment law, with a focus on Asia. He has worked on new approaches to improving international working standards, including on Australian Research Council-funded collaborative projects on Chinese labour law reform; enforcement in Australia; and assessing the effect of legal change in several Asia-Pacific countries. He has published articles in major refereed law journals in Europe, the United States, China and Australia. Between 2014 and 2016, Sean served as a Legal Specialist in the Labour Law and Reform Unit at the International Labour Organization in Geneva.

ANGELA CORNELL

abc49@cornell.edu
Cornell Law School

Angela B. Cornell is a Clinical Professor at Cornell Law School and founding director of the Labor Law Clinic. Her teaching, practice and scholarship focus on domestic and international labor law as well as business and human rights. She is the coeditor of The Cambridge Handbook of Labor and Democracy that was just released. Her work has also been published in a number of other outlets and her opinions referenced by the media, including The New York Times, Economist, BBC, Ms. Magazine, Washington Post, and NPR.

MARCO TÚLIO CORRAIDE

marco.corraide@ufpe.br
Universidade Federal de Pernambuco

Doctoral student in Law at the Federal University of Pernambuco (UFPE) with a scholarship from the Foundation for the Support of Science and Technology of the State of Pernambuco (FACEPE). Master's degree in Law from Universidade Federal de Ouro Preto (UFOP). Bachelor of Laws from UFOP. Member of the research group RESSABER - Grupo de Estudos em Saberes Decoloniais. Member of the Law, Economy and Politics research group. Lawyer.

MÁRCIA FERNANDA CORR_A FARIA

marcia.faria@aluno.ufop.edu.br
Universidade Federal de Ouro Preto

Mestranda em Direito pela Universidade Federal de Ouro Preto (UFOP), com bolsa CAPES. Bacharela em Direito pela Universidade Federal de Ouro Preto (UFOP). Pesquisadora do Grupo de Estudos em Saberes Decoloniais (RESSABER- UFOP).

KATIE CRUZ

katie.cruz@bristol.ac.uk
University of Bristol

Dr Katie Cruz is an Associate Professor in Law at the University of Bristol. Her research explores the limits and possibilities of law for sex workers to address economic and sexual injustices at work. Cruz employs a Marxist feminist perspective, which brings together empirical, theoretical, and doctrinal methods. Her other projects include a UKRI/ ESRC study of the impact of covid on early years educational and care workers, with a particular focus on nannies, childminders and nursery workers, and a British Academy study of the effects of anti-trafficking and child sexual exploitation laws on sex workers in Jamaica.

SUSAN CUEVA

susancueva@kanlungan.org.uk
Exeter University

Susan Cueva is a campaigner for the rights of migrant workers and against labour exploitation. She works at the Greater London Authority as Citizenship and Integration Adviser on migrant labour exploitation. She worked as a trade union officer in different national and international unions in the UK and in the Philippines. She is a co-founder of UK grassroots community organisations such as Kanlungan Filipino Consortium, Kalayaan, the Filipino Domestic Workers Association, Bahay-Kubo Filipino Housing Association, the Southeast and East Asian Centre, Status Now For All. She helps in the setting up of the Phoenix Way Fund, advocating grassroots

EMANUELE DAGNINO

emanuele.dagnino@unimore.it University of Modena and Reggio Emilia

Emanuele Dagnino is a Researcher of Labour Law at the University of Modena and Reggio Emilia, where previously served as Research Assistant and Teaching Assistant. Expert in labour law, his research focuses on the transformation of work and its effects on labour law in broad sense, making use of a comparative approach. His monography "Dalla fisica all'algoritmo. Una prospettiva di analisi giuslavoristica" (2019) deals with labour regulation with specific reference to the impact of digitalisation.

DEEPA DAS ACEVEDO

ddaatuasl@gmail.com
Emory University School of Law

Deepa Das Acevedo is a legal anthropologist and Associate Professor at Emory University School of Law. Her current research explores faculty tenure as an employment protection, blending legal analysis with qualitative and quantitative social science methods. Her previous research combined ethnographic fieldwork with legal and policy analysis to examine labor conditions in the gig economy. Deepa serves as a Trustee of the Law & Society Association (Class of 2024), a board member for the Association for Political and Legal Anthropology, and an editor for the JOTWELL section on Work Law.

ISABELLE DAUGAREILH

isabelle.daugareilh@u-bordeaux.fr
Comptresec-Université de Bordeaux

Isabelle Daugareilh is a CNRS research director in the Center for Comparative Labour and Social Security Law, UMR CNRS 5114 at Bordeaux University. She is a specialist in international and comparative labour law and has been teaching in several Master's programs at Bordeaux University and Bordeaux Institute for Political Studies. She is an associate researcher at CRIMT (Interuniversity Research Centre on Globalization and Work) in Canada. Her research focuses on the social dimension of economic globalization, corporate social responsibility, transnational collective bargaining, due diligence, the social impact of digitization of the economy, and international migration and care workers.

GUY DAVIDOV

guy.davidov@mail.huji.ac.il
Hebrew University of Jerusalem

Guy Davidov is the Elias Lieberman Professor of Labour Law at the Hebrew University of Jerusalem. He was the founder and first Chair (2011-2015) of the LLRN. He was also the Editor-in-Chief of the International Journal of Comparative Labour Law and Industrial Relations (2015-2020). His book A Purposive Approach to Labour Law was published by OUP in 2016. He has also co-edited (with Brian Langille) two influential books, Boundaries and Frontiers of Labour Law (2006) and The Idea of Labour Law (2011). He is currently editing (with Brian Langille and Gillian Lester) the Oxford Handbook of the Law of Work.

ANNE DAVIES

anne.davies@law.ox.ac.uk
University of Oxford

Anne Davies is Professor of Law and Public Policy in the Faculty of Law at the University of Oxford and has published extensively on labour/employment law and public law. Her books include Perspectives on Labour Law (CUP 2009), EU Labour Law (Elgar 2012) and Employment Law (Pearson 2015). She is currently working on a book on remedies in employment law to be published by Hart. She is Editor in Chief of the International Journal of Comparative Labour Law and Industrial Relations and would welcome conversations with prospective contributors to the journal during the conference.

DENNIS DAVIS

judgedennismartin@gmail.com
University of Cape Town (UCT) and University of the Western Cape (UWC)

Dennis Martin Davis Educated at Herzlia School and Universities of Cape Town and Cambridge. judge of High Court, Cape Town from 1998 to 2020 and Judge President, Competition Appeal Court from 1999 to 2020. Honorary professor at University of Cape Town, University of the Western Cape and Wits teaching tax, constitutional law, jurisprudence and competition law. Chair of the Davis Tax Committee, was one of the drafters of the Competition Act 1998 and Companies Act in 2008. Author of eleven books and more than 200 articles in academic journals. Held visiting professorial posts at Toronto, Melbourne, Harvard, NYU, Florida

ELENI DE BECKER

eleni.debecker@kuleuven.be Free University Brussels and KU Leuven

Eleni De Becker is a professor (Free University Brussels) and a substitute professor (KU Leuven) in social security law. Eleni focuses on fundamental social rights from a comparative, international and European perspective, as well as the social security protection for atypical workers and the role of the EU.

ALEXANDER DE BECKER

alexander.debecker@ugent.be
Alexander De Becker

Alexander De Becker is professor of Labour Law at the Faculty of Law of Ghent University (Belgium). He is also president of the Belgian Society for Labour and Social Security law. He used to hold the Chair "The State as Employer" at the Universities of Amsterdam and Leiden in the Netherlands. Alexander is well known for his comparative research with regard to the role of the State as employer and with regard to labour law in general.

MASSIMILIANO DE FALCO

massimiliano.defalco@uniud.it
University of Udine

Massimiliano De Falco is Research Fellow in Labour Law at the University of Udine and PhD Candidate at the University of Siena (ADAPT)

FLAMINIA DE GIULI

flaminia.degiuli@uniroma1.it
La Sapienza Università di Roma

Flaminia De Giuli is a PhD candidate (XXXVII cycle) in Private Autonomy, Business, Labor, and Rights Protection in the European and International Perspective, specializing in Labour Law, at the Department of Legal Sciences of Sapienza University of Rome. She graduated with honors in Law in 2021 from the same university. She is the author of several publications on Labour Law and Trade Union Law.

ALEXANDRE DE LE COURT

alexandre.delecourt@ub.edu
University of Barcelona

Serra Hünter Fellow in Labour Law and Social Security at the University of Barcelona and member of the UPF consolidated research group in Labour Law and Social Security (greDTISS).

BARBARA DE MOZZI

(no e-mail provided)
Università di Padova

Barbara de Mozzi is Associate professor in Labour law at the University of Padua. She has obtained the Italian National Scientific qualification as Professor in Labour law, in 2018. She received her Ph.D in Labour Law at Padua University in 2003. She is Dean of Legal Course "Employment Counselor", at University of Padua. She teaches European Labour Law and Trade Union Law at Law and Trade Union Law at the Faculty of Law in Padua; she teaches Labour Law at the Faculty of Economics in Padua; she teaches Labour Law at the Faculty of Law, University of Innsbruck.

ALEXSSANDRA DE OLIVEIRA FIGUEIREDO

alexssandra.03@hotmail.com

Federal University of Minas Gerais (UFMG)

Alexssandra de Oliveira Figueiredo is a student at the Federal University of Minas Gerais (UFMG). She has been working for two years as an intern at the Slave Labor and Human Trafficking Clinic (CTETP) at UFMG, offering free legal assistance to the victims of these crimes. In addition, she is a researcher for the project “Statistical and socioeconomic analysis regarding the inspection of slavery analogous work in the state of Minas Gerais/Brazil”, which is developed in partnership between the CTETP and the Brazilian Public Ministry of Labor.

VALERIO DE STEFANO

(no e-mail provided)

York University

Prof. Valerio De Stefano, PhD, is the inaugural Canada Research Chair in Innovation, Law and Society, at Osgoode Hall Law School, York University, Toronto. Prior to joining Osgoode and York University, he was the BOFZAP Professor of Labour Law at the KU Leuven. Between 2014 and 2017, he served as an officer of the ILO in Geneva. He holds a PhD (2011) from Bocconi University (Milan).

SIMONE DE VALK

s.n.de.valk@rug.nl

University of Groningen

Simone de Valk has been an assistant professor at the University of Groningen (UG) since 2003. She obtained her doctor's degree (PhD) in 2009 on the subject of personal liability of executives in legal entities under private law and under public law. In the field of labour law, she has specialized in (Dutch) collective labour law.

LAURA DEHAIBI

(no e-mail provided)

Université Laval

Laura Dehaibi is Assistant Professor at the Department of Industrial Relations at the Université Laval (Quebec, Canada). She holds a doctor in civil law from McGill University (Montreal, Canada), where she was also a postdoctoral fellow with the Labour Law and Development Research Laboratory. Her research focuses on the interaction between territory, labour law and social justice from the perspective of marginalized populations and from a transnational point of view. She is currently investigating the spatial dimensions of marginalization at work and how they play out in labour regulation, in particular in the context of gig work.

MASSIMILIANO DELFINO

delfino@unina.it

Università di Napoli Federico II

He started his scientific activity in 1999 when he began to attend PhD course at the University of Catania. He won, in March 2003, the I edition of the “Massimo D’Antona - Marco Biagi Award” organised by the Province of Benevento in collaboration with the Ministry of Labor and Social Policies and INPDAP, in the section “Labor, Industrial Relations and Trade Union Issues,” for the best original monograph. He won the Prize for the best study entitled “Labor Flexibility and the Mezzogiorno: perspectives and proposals for concrete

ELISE DERMINE

elise.dermine@ulb.be

Université libre de Bruxelles (ULB)

Elise Dermine is Professor at the Faculty of Law of the Université libre de Bruxelles, where she teaches labour law and employment rights. Her research focuses on inequalities at work, fundamental social rights and access to labour courts. Recently, she has also conducted research on the role labour law and legal scholars can play in accelerating ecological transition.

HÉLÈNE DEROUBAIX

(no e-mail provided)

Université libre de Bruxelles

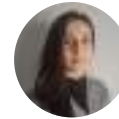

Hélène Deroubaix is a PhD Researcher at the Université libre de Bruxelles (Belgium) (FNRS-FRESH grantee). She conducts her research on the legal issues of the non-take-up of social benefits in Belgium. Prior to being a Phd Researcher, Héléne has been a lawyer in employment law for 4 years in international law firms.

AUDREY DEVERSON

audrey.deverson@etu.unistra.fr

CNRS - University of Strasbourg

Audrey Deverson embarked on her doctoral journey in November 2022 as PhD Student at the European Birds of Passage ERC project. Her work focuses on immigrant women's access to social security in Europe, and more specifically on the case of female workers in temporary migration situations in France and Spain.

RISHABH KUMAR DHIR

(no e-mail provided)

International Labour Organization

Rishabh Kumar Dhir is a Research Officer at the Research Department of the International Labour Organization (ILO), where he is working on issues related to digital labour platforms. He also has experience working on inclusion and climate change issues at the ILO and has a PhD in Development Studies.

SIMONE DI MOLFETTA

(no e-mail provided)

I am a PhD Student in Labour Law and a trainee lawyer in Milan. My areas of interest regards the relationship between worktime and Italian constitution.

MANOJ DIAS-ABEY

manoj.dias-abey@bristol.ac.uk

University of Bristol

Manoj Dias-Abey is a Senior Lecturer in Law at the University of Bristol. He is currently a Co-Director of the Law School's Centre for Law at Work. Manoj is a socio-legal scholar interested in the law of work, migration, social movements, and political economy.

WENWEN DING

cu212006@cupl.edu.cn

University of Political Science and Law

Wenwen Ding is an Assistant Professor at the School of Civil, Commercial and Economic Law of the University of Political Science and Law. She received her S.J.D. degree from the University of Virginia Law School and her L.L.M degree from the University of Pennsylvania Law School. Her research interests include labor law and social security law.

MICHAEL DOHERTY

michael.b.doherty@mu.ie
Maynooth University

Michael Doherty is Full Professor of Law, and Head of the School of Law and Criminology, at Maynooth University (Ireland). His expertise lies in the areas of Irish and EU employment and labour law, industrial relations, and social dialogue. He has published widely on all of these topics in international books and journals, has worked on a number of EU-wide projects on cross-border working terms and conditions, and is a member of several European research networks looking at employment and labour law and policy in the EU.

FILIP DORSEMONT

filip.dorssemont@uclouvain.be Université catholique de Louvain

Prof dr Filip Dorsemont (° 1970) is full professor of Labour Law at the Faculty of Law of the Université catholique de Louvain (in Louvain-La-Neuve). He also is guest professor of European Labour Law at the Free University of Brussels (ULB). He is past president of the Centre interdisciplinaire Droit, Entreprise et Société (Crides at Uclouvain) and currently the President of the School of Labour Sciences (Uclouvain). He has recently been elected Co-President of the Association belge de droit du travail et de la sécurité sociale (2020-2022), after serving as President of this association (2014-2016).

RUTH DUKES

ruth.dukes@glasgow.ac.uk
University of Glasgow

Ruth Dukes is Professor of Labour Law at the University of Glasgow, UK, and Principal Investigator on the Work on Demand project, funded by the European Research Council. She is the author of The Labour Constitution: the Enduring Idea of Labour Law (Oxford 2014) and, with Wolfgang Streeck, Democracy at Work: Contract, Status and Post-Industrial Justice (Polity 2023).

DANIEL DUMONT

daniel.dumont@ulb.be
Université Libre de Bruxelles (ULB)

Lawyer and philosopher Daniel Dumont is professor of social security law at the Université Libre de Bruxelles (ULB), in Belgium. He was vice-president of the Belgian Society for Labour and Social Security Law, the Belgian section of the ISLSSL, between 2014 and 2016. He conducts research mainly on social protection systems as well as employment, vocational training, welfare, and health policies.

ILDA DURRI

ilda.durri@kuleuven.be Institute for Labour Law, KU Leuven University

Ilda Durri is in the final stage of her doctoral dissertation at the Institute for Labour Law, University of KU Leuven, Belgium. She holds a master in European and International Labour Law (LL.M.) from the University of Amsterdam, and a master in Civil Law (MSc) from the University of Tirana. Her main publications include a book on gig economy published by Edward Elgar, which she has co-edited and authored, and two working papers for the International Labour Organization.

FRANZ CHRISTIAN EBERT

ebert@ilo.org
ILO

Franz Christian Ebert, LL.M (Utrecht), is a research officer at the Research Department of the International Labour Organization in Geneva. Previously, Franz worked as a research fellow at the Max Planck Institute for Comparative Public Law and International Law in Heidelberg and was a visiting professional at the Inter-American Court of Human Rights. He was also a visiting researcher at Columbia Law School and at the Lauterpacht Centre for International Law at the University of Cambridge.

ANJA ELEVELD

anja.eleveld@vu.nl
Vrije Universiteit

Anja Eleveld is an associate professor social law at the Vrije Universiteit. Using both qualitative and doctrinal research methods, her research focuses on fundamental (social) rights and coercion in work relations. Currently she is working on a project on the meaningfulness of unfree work. Her multi-disciplinary research has been published in various international journals in the field of labour law, social-legal studies, (social) policy and political studies. She is the lead editor of a book on legal, sociological and philosophical perspectives on welfare to work for the Policy Press. Anja teaches European labour law, sociology and qualitative research methods.

ANNE-BETH MEIDELL ENGAN

(no e-mail provided)
University of Oslo

Anne-Beth Meidell Engan is a Research Fellow, from 2021. Her primary research interests are in individual labour law, and her PhD-project is focused on the topic of damages and compensation in employment law, intersecting with general law of damages and EU/EEA law on damages and effective enforcement in the field.

MERLE ERIKSON

merle.erikson@ut.ee
University of Tartu

Merle Erikson is a professor of labour law at the University of Tartu. Her main areas of study and teaching are Estonian labour law, international labour law and the European Union social policy and labour law. Merle Erikson has authored over a hundred publications, which include academic articles, monographs and contributions to edited volumes and participated in dozens of international and Estonian research projects.

MARIE-CÉCILE ESCANDE-VARNIOL

marie-cecile.escande-varniol@univ-lyon2.fr
Université Lyon 2

Marie-Cécile ESCANDE-VARNIOL is Professor Emeritus at the University of Lyon. She is a member of research center CERCRIID. Author of numerous articles and commentaries, particularly in the field of international and European social law. She has participated in various research projects in this field, funded by the European Commission or other international bodies. She is a member of several research networks: LLRN, INLACRIS, COGENS, GEFAC, and the Panama Group (social dialogue, tripartism and conflict resolution). For more than seven years, her research focuses on digital platforms workers. She has participated in numerous national and international studies on this topic.

EDO ESHET

(no e-mail provided)
Sapir Academic College

Dr. Eshet Edo is the Head of the Law School at Sapir Academic College, Israel. His research focuses on collective labor law and representation. Additionally, Dr. Eshet served in the legal office of the Israeli Parliament and worked in private practice.

CYNTHIA ESTLUND

ce21@nyu.edu
New York University School of Law

Cynthia Estlund is the Catherine A. Rein Professor at the New York University School of Law. She has published widely on the law and policy governing work and labor, including four books—Automation Anxiety: Why and How to Save Work (Oxford, 2021); A New Deal for China's Workers? (Harvard, 2017); Regoverning the Workplace: From Self-Regulation to Co-Regulation (Yale, 2010); and Working Together: How Workplace Bonds Strengthen a Diverse Democracy (Oxford, 2003)—and over eighty articles, book chapters, reviews, and essays. She has also taught at the University of Texas School of Law, Columbia Law School, and Harvard Law School.

ALAN EUSTACE

(no e-mail provided)

Magdalen College, University of Oxford

From Dublin, Ireland. LLB (2018) Trinity College Dublin; BCL (2019) University of Oxford; PhD (2023) Trinity College Dublin. Fellow and Lecturer in Law, Magdalen College, University of Oxford, United Kingdom. Research and teaching in labour law, constitutional law and EU law.

MAURIZIO FALSONE

falsonemaurizio@gmail.com

Ca' Foscari University of Venice

Maurizio Falsone (born in 1985) is an associate professor in the Management department of the Ca' Foscari University of Venice. He teaches labour law and industrial relations, social security law, new technologies and labour rights. He graduated from Pisa and obtained a research doctorate from the University of Milano-Bicocca. He was a researcher at the University of Genoa and a visiting research fellow at the Fordham University School of Law in New York in 2019 and 2022

JOSEP FARGAS

josep.fargas@upf.edu

UPF-Universitat Pompeu Fabra

Associate Professor at UPF-Barcelona. Previously he worked in health and in financial institutions. Graduated in Law (1990) at UAB-Barcelona, Magister in Comparative Law (1992); PhD in Law (2001) at UPF. Always involved in academic management, he has been director of the School of Labour Relations; and Secretary General of the UPF. Co-director of the Master's Degree in Labour Law and Social Security (29 editions). Member of the LLRN Advisory Committee (since 2011). His lines of research are non-contributory benefits, and social security for civil servants. Last publication: "Government inconsistencies about retirement pensions" (2022).

COLIN FENWICK

fenwick@ilo.org

International Labour Office

Colin Fenwick is Head of Better Work in Asia. In this role he oversees Better Work country operations in Cambodia, Indonesia, Pakistan and Viet Nam. In the Better Work Global management team he has lead responsibility for the factory services team. Before joining Better Work, Colin was a legal specialist in the International Labour Office for 14 years, most recently in the country office for Pacific Island Countries in Suva. Prior to joining the ILO, Colin was an Associate Professor at Melbourne Law School, a position he still holds on an honorary basis.

MARIA CAROLINA FERNANDES OLIVEIRA

mariaacarinaf@gmail.com

Universidade Federal de Minas Gerais

Doctoral student and Master in Law at the Federal University of Minas Gerais. Volunteer lawyer at the Clinic for Combating Slave Labor and Human Trafficking (UFMG Law School). Researcher in the field of domestic slave labor.

ARIADNA FERNANDES SILVA

(no e-mail provided)

Universidade de Fortaleza - UNIFOR

Ph.D. Student at University of Fortaleza - UNIFOR Post-Graduation Program. Holds a Master Degree in Private Law from 7 de Setembro University Center (UNI7).

MATTHEW FINKIN

(no e-mail provided)

University of Illinois College of Law

Matthew Finkin, professor of labor law, University of Illinois, USA, author or editor, singly or in collaboration, of eleven books and over 100 professional publications, since 1997 co-editor of the Comparative Labor Law & Policy Journal, holder of the LLRN's Bob Hepple Award (2021), of honorary doctorates from the Universities of Padua, Italy (2022), Trier, Germany (2012), and Athens, Greece (2011), the rank of Chevalier in the Ordre des Palmes Académiques (2015), and holder of the Alexander von Humboldt Foundation's Research Award (Forschungspreis) (1995).

OLIVER FISHER

oliver.fisher@labourexploitation.org

Focus on Labour Exploitation

Oliver Fisher is the research manager at Focus on Labour Exploitation (FLEX), a UK based research and policy organisation that aims to end labour exploitation by challenging and transforming the systems and structures that make workers vulnerable to abuse. Oliver's research background is in He has a background in labour rights, labour migration, the care economy, and gender equality and women's rights.

FERNANDO FITA-ORTEGA

fernando.fita@uv.es

UNIVERSITAT DE VALENCIA

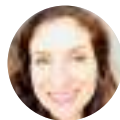

PhD in Law. Member of the arbitration Committee for election of employees' representatives' (Valencia). International correspondent of the Brazilian Association of Labour Law. Researching and teaching periods in different Universities of Europe (Université Paris X, CERCRID, Université Rennes-1, Université de Toulouse, Università di Catania, Università di Bologna, Università di Bari, Università di Trieste, Leicester University; University of Warmia and Mazury in Olsztyn; University of Warsaw) and South América (Univerisdad de Talca, PUC de Sao Paulo, PUCRS, UDF) Now involved in the following researching groups: Gender perspective in teaching (UV). Trade Unionism (UDF, Brasil); Employment law, climate change and just transition

FRANCES FLANAGAN

fnflanagan@gmail.com

University of Sydney

Frances Flanagan is a Lecturer in Work and Organisational Studies at the University of Sydney. With an interdisciplinary background in law and history, Frances' research focuses on the changing capacity of labour law to recognise and protect social formations over time, with a particular focus on climate change, digital technologies and neoliberal institutional orders. She was the co-editor of the 2023 special issue of the Journal of Industrial Relations on 'Climate Change and Industrial Relations' and has published in journals including New Technology Work and Employment, Labour History, Journal of Industrial Relations and Thesis Eleven.

IZABELA FLORCZAK

iflorczak@wpia.uni.lodz.pl

University of Lodz

Assistant Professor at the Department of Labour Law, Institute of Social Security Law and Social Policy, Faculty of Law and Administration, University of Lodz (Poland); Associate Dean for International Cooperation and Projects; Member of the Coordinating Committee of the Polish Scientific Network of Labour Law and Social Security COOPERANTE; Member of the AI Work Team; Vice Director of the Centre of Migration Studies of the University of Lodz. Scientific interests: basis of employment; migration labour law; atypical employment; new forms of employment; precarious work.

VALENTINA FRANCA

valentina.franca@gmail.com

University of Ljubljana

Valentina Franca, PhD, works as an associate professor and researcher of labour law and social security law at the Faculty of Public Administration, University of Ljubljana, Slovenia. Her research includes numerous studies, books and articles in the field of collective labor relations, digitalization in labor relations and new forms of work. She is a member of the editorial boards of scientific journals and participates as a national expert in international associations such as the Worker Participation Network at the ETUI Institute in Brussels and CEELEX at the ILO.

SANDRA FREDMAN

sandra.fredman@law.ox.ac.uk
University of Oxford

Sandra Fredman is Professor of Law, Oxford University and Director, Oxford Human Rights Hub. She is a Fellow of the British Academy and King's Council (honoris causa). She has numerous peer-reviewed publications. Books include Discrimination Law (3rd ed 2022); Comparative Human Rights (2018); Human Rights Transformed (2008) and Women and the Law (1997). Edited books include Exponential Inequalities (2022) with Shreya Atrey; and Feminist Frontiers on Climate Justice (2023) with Albertyn, Campbell, Alviar and Machado. She helped draft the Abidjan Principles on the Right to Education. Current research includes fair work for gigworkers; and the right to Early Education.

JUDY FUDGE

(no e-mail provided)
McMaster Univeristy

Judy Fudge takes a socio-legal approach to studying work and labour. Her initial research was on Canadian labour law history, constitutional rights and labour, and precarious work. More recent work focuses on the labour/migration law nexus, citizenship at work, and feminist approaches to labour law. She has worked with women's groups, legal clinics, trade unions, and the International Labour Organization. She has written on labour exploitation, modern slavery, and unfree labour in the context of labour migration. Currently she is leading a project called Governing Forced Labour in Labour and Supply Chains (www.gflc.ca).

TAKASHI FUJIKI

takashi.fujiki.45@hosei.ac.jp
HOSEI Univesity

I have been studying labor law for about ten years in Japan. I have a degree of Doctor of Laws in 2020 by Hitotsubashi University. In Doctoral thesis, I explore the legal protection of concerted activities by union in comparison to that by civil organizations, in U.S. and Japan. Now I'm also interested in issues concerning technological developments; gig economy and platform work, independent contractors' collective bargaining, AI and its impact on workplace, and so on. I look forward to attending LLRN6, because it is for the first time for the international conference.

FEDERICO FUSCO

federico.fusco01@gmail.com
Prince Mohammad bin Fahd University (Saudi Arabia)

Dr. Federico Fusco, a dedicated Assistant Professor at Prince Mohammad bin Fahd University, Saudi Arabia, possesses a distinguished academic background with a Master's degree in Law and a PhD in Law and Economics from esteemed Italian universities and a Post Doc from Lund University, Sweden. An accomplished attorney and partner at an Italian law firm, his expertise spans labour law, privacy law, gig-economy, industrial relations, and AI & law. With a remarkable track record in teaching and research, Dr. Fusco's output includes numerous publications and presentations at prestigious international conferences, demonstrating dedication to advancing knowledge in the realm of labour law.

SERGIO GAMONAL

sergio.gamonal@uai.cl Universidad Adolfo Ibá_ ez

Professor of Law. Director of the Master in Labor Law, Universidad Adolfo Ibá_ ez, Chile. Author of the book "Principled Labor Law" (OUP, 2019, co-authored with César Rosado).

MANUEL ANTONIO GARCIA-MU_OZ ALHAMBRA

anto85cr@hotmail.com
University of Luxembourg

Antonio Garcia-Mu_oz is post-doctoral researcher at the University of Luxembourg. He has worked in several Universities on topics related to Social Europe, with a focus on EU level social dialogue and collective bargaining and has been involved in several European research projects. Currently he is exploring the role of labour law in the production of in-work poverty and other instances of vulnerability, the regulation of telework, including the right to disconnect, and the relations between labour law, economic growth and sustainability in the EU and beyond.

GIOVANNI GAUDIO

giovanni.gaudio@unive.it
Ca' Foscari University, Venice

Giovanni, who holds a PhD from Bocconi University, Milan, is a Post-doctoral Researcher at Ca' Foscari University, Venice. He has been a visiting researcher at Oxford University, he has been involved in several research projects, and he has acted as external consultant for the ILO. For his academic work, Giovanni has been awarded the Marco Biagi Award 2019 by the International Association of Labour Law Journals (best international paper among early career labour law scholars) and the Marco Biagi Prize 2020 by ADAPT and Italian Ministry of Labour (best PhD thesis in labour law and industrial relations in Italy).

BETH GAZE

egaze@unimelb.edu.au
Beth Gaze

Professor Beth Gaze works in equality and discrimination law and administrative law. She has conducted empirical research projects as well as advising governments, law reform bodies and human rights commissions on law reform issues. She is a co-author of Equality and Discrimination Law in Australia: An Introduction (2017).

RAOUL GEBERT

raoul.gebert@usherbrooke.ca
Université de Sherbrooke

Raoul Gebert is assistant professor at the University of Sherbrooke. He specializes in labour relations, collective bargaining and globalization. Before (re-)joining academia in 2016, he served as Chief of staff to the Leader of the Official Opposition in the Canadian House of Commons.

DALIA GESUALDI

dalia.gesualdi-fecteau@umontreal.ca
Dalia Gesualdi

Dalia Gesualdi-Fecteau is a professor of labour law at the School of Industrial Relations of the Université de Montréal (Canada) and a co-researcher at the Interuniversity Research Centre on Globalization and Work (CRIMT). Her research focuses on sociolegal issues relating to the effective implementation of labour law. Her recent publications focus on the working conditions of precarious workers, on the role of the labour inspectorate and on the regulation of working time. Dalia Gesualdi-Fecteau is often consulted by civil society groups, unions and policy makers.

GIANLUCA GIAMPA

gianluca.giampa@uniroma1.it
Sapienza University of Rome

Gianluca Giampa is a PhD candidate in Labour Law at Sapienza University of Rome. He graduated with honors in Law from the same university and won the "Ludovico Barassi" 2021 award for the best thesis in Labour Law, awarded by the Italian Association of Labour Law and Social Security (AIDLASS). He is the author of some publications on Labour Law and Trade Union Law.

JOHN GODDARD

john.goddard@lambtonchambers.co.nz
New Zealand Labour Law Society

I am a barrister in Aotearoa New Zealand. I am a committee member of the New Zealand Labour Law Society. I am a passionate advocate for labour rights and other human rights and providing access to remedy for disadvantaged people.

BARBARA GODLEWSKA-BUJOK

bgb@uw.edu.pl
University of Warsaw

Barbara Godlewska-Bujok is a lawyer, working at the Faculty of Management, University of Warsaw, Poland. She is interested in phenomena related to the genesis and development of labor law institutions, care theories, care practices, women's work, work of vulnerable groups.

GABRIELLE GOLDING

gabrielle.golding@adelaide.edu.au
The University of Adelaide

Dr Gabrielle Golding is a Senior Lecturer in Law and Associate Dean of Law (Learning and Teaching) at the University of Adelaide. Her research focuses on the intersection between employment and contract law. Dr Golding's recent work, including her forthcoming monograph 'Shaping Contracts for Work: The Normative Influence of Terms Implied by Law' (OUP 2023), concentrates on how terms implied by law influence contracts for work.

JAKUB GOŁAŚ

jakub.golas@amu.edu.pl
Adam Mickiewicz University, Poznań

Assistant Professor at the Department of Labor and Social Law at the Faculty of Law and Administration of the Adam Mickiewicz University, Poznań. Legal practitioner. Long-term supervisor of the Labor Law and Social Security Section of the AMU Student Law Clinic. Author of a monograph on the substantive and legislative limits of trade union freedoms. His research interests revolve around such issues in the field of individual and collective labour law as the legal position of trade union organisations, social dialogue in the workplace, collective disputes and atypical forms of employment, with particular emphasis on platform work and algorithmic management.

ANA GOMES

avmgomes@gmail.com
Universidade de Fortaleza

Ana Virginia Moreira Gomes is a Labour Law Professor at the Faculty of Law of University of Fortaleza, Brazil. Her work focuses on International Labour Law, specifically on the following subjects: fundamental rights, ILO, regulation of informal work and protection of vulnerable workers, in special domestic work. She coordinates the Center for Studies in Labor Law and Social Security at the University of Fortaleza.

ERIK GRAHN

erik.grahn@jur.uu.se
Uppsala University Department of Law

Erik Grahn is a doctoral candidate at the Uppsala University Faculty of Law. His research is on the impact of employee's right to private life, freedom of expression and freedom of religion on employee's duties following from Swedish employment contracts. Grahn's research concerns national as well as EUCJ and ECtHR case law. In addition to this Grahn has published handbooks and practical analyses on discrimination case law, national and EU regulation of working time, whistleblowing and surveillance in the workplace.

ELENA GRAMANO

elena.gramano@unibocconi.it Bocconi University

Dr. Elena Gramano is Assistant Professor of Labour law at Bocconi University in Milan.

IWONA GREDKA-LIGARSKA

iwona.gredka-ligarska@us.edu.pl University of Silesia in Katowice, Faculty of Law and Administration

Iwona Gredka-Ligarska: barrister, PhD in jurisprudence, Assistant Professor at the Faculty of Law and Administration of the University of Silesia in Katowice (Poland). Laureate of the OPUS-21 competition organized by the Polish National Science Center. Member of the Labour Law and Social Policy Research Team. Chairwoman of the Programme Board of the National Institute for Museums and Public Collections in 2016–2022. Specialist in labour law, civil law and cultural heritage protection law. Author of over 40 scientific publications and a participant in national and international scientific conferences.

PIOTR GRZEBYK

p.grzebyk@wpia.uw.edu.pl
University of Warsaw

Assistant Professor at the Faculty of Law University of Warsaw, Vice Dean for legal research and international collaboration, Head of the Polish Research Centre for Law and Economy of China and the School of Law and Economy of China: www.chinalaw.wpia.uw.edu.pl

STEFANO GUADAGNO

stefano.guadagno@gmail.com
University of Milan - Bicocca

In the course of my academic career my research interest and work have taken into account the interplay and the balancing between economic freedoms and business enterprise and fundamental social rights and collective labour rights, with a particular focus on the transnational settings as well as new forms of non standard employment.

MARCO GUERINI

marco.guerini@unibs.it Universita degli Studi di Brescia

Marco Guerini is a labour lawyer in Milan and PhD student at the University of Brescia. His main fields of research are access to justice and outsourced work.

FRÉDÉRIC GUIOMARD

frederic.guiomard@ut-capitole.fr
Université Toulouse Capitole

Frédéric Guiomard is professor of Labour Law and Social Security Law at the University of Toulouse - Capitole, France, Member of the Institut de Droit Privé, and director of the axis of Labour and professional activity Law. His main topics of researches are discrimination law, social justice, and the Law of the Welfare state.

TAMAS GYULAVARI

gyulavari.tamas@jak.ppke.hu
Pazmany Peter Catholic University

Tamás Gyulavári is a Professor of Labour Law and Chair of Labour Law Department at Pázmány Péter Catholic University in Budapest. After his graduation in Budapest (1992), he continued his studies at Warwick, Groningen, Aix-Marseille and Lund Universities. He is editor of the “Hungarian Labour Law E-Journal”. He has been working in a dozen of EU projects in association with Human European Consultancy, Leeds University, Université Lyon 2, Labour Asociados and Astrées. He was also an ILO expert in Albania (2012-2016). He is the member of the European Labour Law Network and the Academic Network of Experts on Disability.

TESS HARDY

tess.hardy@unimelb.edu.au
University of Melbourne

Associate Professor Tess Hardy is Director of the Centre for Employment and Labour Relations Law at Melbourne Law School. Her research mainly focuses on labour regulation and its enforcement, and the way in which this intersects with business regulation more broadly. Prior to joining academia, Tess was a private practitioner based in Melbourne, Tokyo and Hong Kong, advising principally in the area of work law. Tess is an editor of the Australian Journal of Labour Law, has previously been a consultant to the International Labour Organisation and currently sits on the national committee of the Australian Labour Law Association.

JONATHAN HARRIS

jonathan.harris@lls.edu
Loyola Law School Los Angeles

Jonathan Harris writes and speaks on work law, contracts, and workforce development. His publications have appeared or are forthcoming in the California Law Review, Alabama Law Review, and Comparative Labor Law and Policy Journal, among other journals, and have been cited by the U.S. Senate Banking Committee. He is also a grantee of the University of California Student Loan Law Initiative. Harris is the Chair-Elect of the AALS Section on Labor Relations and Employment Law. He previously taught at NYU Law School. Prior to teaching and practicing labor and employment law, he was a labor organizer.

CHIZUKO HAYAKAWA

chayakaw@cc.saga-u.ac.jp
Saga University

Chizuko Hayakawa is Ph D. (Law) and Professor of Faculty of Economics, Saga University of Japan. Her research mainly focuses on labor laws and policy issues relating to foreign workers in Japan, legal study on migrant workers. She published a book 'GAIKOKUJIN RODOSHA TO HO (FOREIGN WORKERS AND THE LAW)' (Tokyo, Shinzansha, 2020).

RENATE IREN HEGGELUND

r.i.heggelund@jus.uio.no
University of Oslo

Currently writing a theses about the co-determination rights of employees in the digitized workplace.

JOANNA HELME

joanna.helme@law.ox.ac.uk
Joanna Grace Helme

I am a Labour Law PhD student at the University of Oxford, holding the Judge Meron Scholarship, co-supervised by Professor Jeremias Adams-Prassl and Professor Anne Davies. Prior to the PhD, I completed a masters in Development at the University of Cambridge and won eight awards for top performance during my Law degree at the Universities of Nottingham and Vienna. I previously worked at Partners Employment Lawyers in London and supported trade unions engage with young workers as an intern at the ILO. My research examines the 'humanisation of work principle' and its application to psychosocial risks and algorithmic management.

ANETTE HEMMINGBY

anette.hemmingby@bi.no
Norwegian Business School BI

Hemmingby is an Associate Professor at the Institute of Law and Governance at Norwegian Business School BI. She has her PhD in Law from the University of Oslo with the topic “Unilateral Changes of Economic Performance in Employment Relationships”. Hemmingby was one of the initiators behind the Nordic Network of Labour Law Scholars (NNLLS), she is editor of the Nordic Journal of Labour Law, co-founder of the Norwegian Labour Law Historical Association and a representative of the Employment Law Group at the BI Norwegian Business School in the LLRN. Hemmingby has written several articles and books on labour law.

FRANK HENDRICKX

frank.hendrickx@kuleuven.be
KU Leuven

Frank Hendrickx is professor of labour law and director of the Institute for Labour Law at KU Leuven (Belgium). He is the editor-in-chief of the European Labour Law Journal (Sage), General Editor of the International Encyclopedia of Laws (Wolters Kluwer) and Editor of the Bulletin of Comparative Labour Relations (Wolters Kluwer).

PETRA HERZFELD OLSSON

petra.herzfeld-olsson@juridicum.su.se Stockholm University

Professor of Labour Law at the Law Faculty, Stockholm University and also a member of ILO’s Committee on Freedom of Association.

CHRISTINA HIESSL

christina.hiessl@kuleuven.be
KU Leuven

Christina Hiessl is Professor of Labour Law at KU Leuven, Invited Professor of Social Welfare at Yonsei University, and Consulting Expert of the European Commission’s Centre of Expertise in the Field of Labour Law (ECE). She has worked and/or studied in eight countries, focusing on comparative social law and policy research. She is board member of the European Labour Law Journal, scientific advisory board member of the Frankfurt Law Review, European correspondent of the _____ and managing board member of the honours programme “KU Leuven Engage”.

JOHAN HOLM

johan.holm@umu.se
Departement of Law, Umeå University

LLD from Umeå University, LLM and MA from Stockholm University. Associate professor at Umeå university. Teacher in work environment law and labour law. Researcher in work environment law, currently part of the project “Work from home - legal challenges for work environment and insurance protection” (research grant from FORTE, Swedish Research Council for Health Working Life and Welfare).

ISTVÁN HORVÁTH

horvath.istvan@ajk.elte.hu
Eötvös Loránd University Budapest

- associate professor, head of department; Department of Labour Law and Social Law Eötvös Loránd University Faculty of Law - instructor responsible for labour law specialist training; Eötvös Loránd University, Institute for Postgraduate Legal Studies - member; Hungarian Accreditation Committee, Committee on Legal Affairs, member - CIELO - president, Labor Law and Social Law Department of the Hungarian Bar Association - attorney ; Dr. P. Horváth Law Office

RYO HOSOKAWA

rio.hosokawa_droitdutravail@als.aoyama.ac.jp
Aoyama Gakuin University (AGU)

I have been studying labor law and labor relationship in Japan and in France for many years. I am currently interested in the relationship between labor law and competition law regarding the legal protection of platform workers. I have attended some ISLSSL conferences, and I am also interested in the activity of LLRN. I look forward to attending LLRN6 in Poland.

MARIANNE JENUM HOTVEDT

m.j.hotvedt@jus.uio.no
Department of Private Law, University of Oslo

Marianne Jenum Hotvedt is Professor of Law and Vice Dean for Studies at the Faculty of Law, University of Oslo, Norway. She is co-author of the reference book "Labour Law" (Arbeidsrett, 3. edition) and deputy judge at the Labour Court, and she has published numerous book chapters and articles in the field of labour law.

MIJKE HOUWERZIJL

m.s.houwerzijl@tilburguniversity.edu
Tilburg University

Mijke Houwerzijl is a Full Professor of Labour Law at Tilburg University (since 2011). She has published widely on Dutch and European labour law and social security law, with an emphasis on legal aspects of transnational labour mobility within the EU. Recent research projects include the H2020 WorkingYetPoor project and a Dutch Instituut Gak project on the protection of workers in relation to "platformisation" and "algorithmisation".

JOHN HOWE

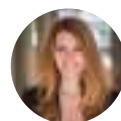

j.howe@unimelb.edu.au
Melbourne Law School

Professor John Howe Board Member Professor John Howe is Director of the Melbourne School of Government and the Centre for Employment and Labour Relations Law at the University of Melbourne. His research interests include labour market policy and regulation, regulatory design and social procurement. John has previously held roles as Deputy Dean of the Melbourne Law School, Secretary of the Australian Labour Law Association, and Chair of the International Labour Law Research Network. He is currently an Editor of the Australian Journal of Labour Law.

SARA HUNGLER

hungler.sara@tk.hu
CSS Institute for Legal Studies / ELTE Faculty of Law

Sara Hungler teaches Hungarian and European as well as international labour law, social policy, equality and human rights in various (Hungarian and international) undergraduate and Master level courses as well as in the ELTE Doctoral School. She has participated in several international research projects. She is awarded with a post-doctoral scholarship by the National Research, Development and Innovation Office, she is currently researching social integration in the Visegrad countries. She is regularly publishing her results in Hungarian and international journals, and her book, The Dual Nature of Employee Participation was published in 2020, by L'Harmattan (Paris).

SARA HUYBRECHTS

sara.huybrechts@kuleuven.be
Institute for Labour Law - KU Leuven

Sara Huybrechts (° 24 February 1998) graduated magna cum laude as Master of Laws at KU Leuven's Faculty of Law in 2021. In her master's years, she followed the Research Master's track. This special program focuses on academic research and prepares motivated students for a life in academia. She combined this track with mainly social and private law subjects. On 1 September 2021, Sara started full-time employment at the Institute of Labour Law. Under the guidance of Prof. Dr. Frank Hendrickx, she is working on a PhD on telework and autonomous work.

ALAN HYDE

professoralanhyde@gmail.com
Rutgers University

Alan Hyde, AB (Stanford) 1972, JD (Yale) 1975, Distinguished Professor and Sidney Reitman Scholar, Rutgers Law School. Author: Working in Silicon Valley: Economic and Legal Analysis of a High-Velocity Labor Market (2003), Bodies of Law (1997); Legal Rights and Interests in the Workplace: Cases and Materials on Labor and Employment Law (2007, with C.W. Summers and K.G. Dau-Schmidt) and Cases and Materials on Labor Law (2d ed., 1982, with C.W. Summers and H.H. Wellington). Visiting professor Ca'Foscari, Yale, Toronto, Columbia, New York University, Cardozo, Cornell, Fordham.

ANDREA IOSSA

andrea.iossa@hkr.se Kristianstad University

Andrea Iossa is Senior Lecturer in labour law at Kristianstad University. His research interests cover European, international and comparative labour law and industrial relations, EU internal market law, labour migration and legal geography.

MAKOTO ISHIDA

ishidama@waseda.jp
Waseda University

I have been studying labor law in Japan for many years. I am currently interested in the relationship between labor law and competition law regarding the legal protection of platform workers. I have attended LLRN conferences in Amsterdam, Toronto and Valparaiso, each of which has been very stimulating. I look forward to attending LLRN6 in Poland for the first face-to-face meeting in four years.

CAROLINE JOHANSSON

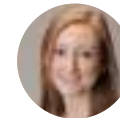

caroline.johansson@jur.uu.se
Uppsala University

Caroline Johansson has a Doctor of Laws and holds a position as associate senior lecturer in private law at the Law Faculty, Uppsala University. She defended her doctoral thesis in 2018, in which she examines the relation between Swedish collectively bargained occupational pensions and EU's internal market law. After her dissertation she has continued to focus on issues connected to collectively bargained benefits and the Swedish model of labour market relations as well as issues regarding the relation between the said model and EU law.

ARWEN JOYCE

arwen.joyce@le.ac.uk
University of Leicester

Dr Arwen Joyce is a Lecturer in Law at the University of Leicester. She completed her PhD in Law at the University of Leicester in 2022 with a thesis titled 'Prioritising low-wage migrant workers and their migration projects: A comparative analysis of the laws and policies governing temporary labour migration in East and Southeast Asia'. She previously practiced law with Linklaters LLP in London and Singapore and lectured at Singapore Management University. Arwen is a non-practicing member of the New York Bar and a Fellow of the Higher Education Academy.

RENAN KALIL

renan.kalil@gmail.com
University of Sao Paulo

Post-doctoral researcher at the University of Sao Paulo (USP). Ph.D. in Law (University of Sao Paulo). Labor Prosecutor in Brazil. Deputy National Head of the Combat on Labor Relations Dissimulation. Associated Staff Member of the inter-American Commission on Human Rights (2019).

MINJU KANG

jo.mj.kang@gmail.com
Seoul National University

Minju Kang, a visiting scholar at Minerva Center of Human Rights at Tel Aviv University, is a Ph.D. Candidate at Seoul National University. Before coming to Tel Aviv, she did her Master of Law (LL.M) degree at Yale Law School, where she was a resident fellow at the Information Society Project and also served as a Submissions Editor at Yale Journal of International Law. While in Korea, she served as a researcher at various public interest institutions, including APIL (Advocates for Public Interest Law), the SNU Center for Public Interest and Human Rights Law, the SNU Center for Labor and Social Welfare Law, and North Korean Refugees Foundation.

GABOR KARTYAS

kartyas.gabor@jak.ppke.hu
Pazmany Peter Catholic University

Gábor Kártyás is associate professor at the Labour Law Department of Pázmány Péter Catholic University (Budapest). The topic of his PhD dissertation was temporary agency work in Hungary and in the European Union. He completed his habilitation on the topic of posted workers in EU law in 2021. He has been involved in a number of international research projects, including the European Trade Union Institution and the Eurofound. Between 2018 and 2021 he supported the labour law jurisdiction of the Supreme Court of Hungary (Kúria) as advocate general. In the 15 years of his academic career, he has taught courses

CEREN KAS_M

cerenkasim@gmail.com
University of Hildesheim

Ceren Kas_m is a research fellow at the University of Hildesheim with a doctorate from the University of Göttingen and a master's degree from the Humboldt University of Berlin. She holds an undergraduate degree in Law from Ankara University and is a qualified attorney-at-law (non-practising). Ceren Kas_m has been awarded several grants for her research, including a PhD scholarship from the Hans Böckler Foundation and the Turkish Programme for the Promotion of Young Researchers, as well as a DAAD grant. She has worked in social security, trade unions and has published on topics such as discrimination, dismissal, and gender-based violence.

TAMMY KATSABIAN

TammyKa@colman.ac.il
The Haim Striks Faculty of Law, the College of Management Academic Studies

Tammy Katsabian (PhD) is an associate professor at the Haim Striks Faculty of Law at the College of Management Academic Studies. Her research is dealing with labor rights in the digital reality, with a specific focus on questions of privacy, equality, working from home ("telework") and the gig economy. Tammy has a PhD degree from the law faculty of the Hebrew University, an L.L.M degree from Yale Law School and Tel-Aviv University (cum laude) and an L.L.B degree from Bar Ilan University (cum laude). She was a postdoctoral fellow at Harvard Law School.

IOANNIS KATSAROUMPAS

I.Katsaroumpas@sussex.ac.uk
University of Sussex

Ioannis is a Lecturer in Employment Law at the University of Sussex. He holds an LL.B (First Class) from University of Athens, M.Jur, M. Phil in Law (Distinction) and D. Phil in Law from University of Oxford. His most recent work is on international labour law and labour law and authoritarianism. He has been the author (or co-author) of reports for the European Parliament, International Labour Organisation and the European Trade Union Institute.

EDDIE KEANE

eddie.keane@ul.ie
University of Limerick

Eddie Keane graduated from UL in 2003 with an LLB in Law and in 2005 with an LLM in European and Comparative Law. Since 2005, Eddie has worked with UL's School of Law, initially as a teaching assistant, before becoming a member of faculty in 2010; Eddie's primary teaching and research interests are in the areas of labour law and commercial law. He has presented at conferences nationally and internationally and his work has been published in leading academic journals. He is also a regular contributor to national media outlets.

HANNA KINOWSKA

hanna.kinowska@sgh.waw.pl
 SGH Warsaw School of Economics

Doctor of economic sciences. Assistant professor at the Institute of Human Capital at the SGH Warsaw School of Economics. She has been involved in human capital management practice for nearly twenty years. Author of numerous publications in the field of human resource management and compensation. Member of a research team investigating the justice of remuneration. She conducts master's and post-graduate courses in human resource management, motivation and remuneration of employees.

TIMO KNAEBE

tknaebe@gmail.com
 University of Frankfurt am Main

Following his master's in laws studies in Frankfurt am Main/Germany (2005) and in Dar es Salaam/Tanzania (2006), Timo Knäbe worked for research institutions and international organizations in Germany, Switzerland, and Poland before joining the European Border and Coast Guard Agency Frontex as Team Leader and Senior Legal Officer in 2017. He published articles on domestic, European, and international labour law and transparency in the EU. Timo Knäbe is currently pursuing a Ph.D in international labour law with the University of Frankfurt am Main.

EVA KOCHER

kocher@europa-uni.de
 European University Viadrina

Eva Kocher is the head of the Center for Interdisciplinary Labour Law Studies at the Law Faculty of European University Viadrina Frankfurt (Oder), Germany. Her research focusses on collective labour law, antidiscrimination law, gender and the law, European labour law, digital labour, domestic work/live-in work, care work, transnational supply chains.

KEVIN KOLBEN

kkolben@Business.rutgers.edu
 Rutgers Business School

Kevin Kolben is a professor of business law and Rutgers Business School, Newark and New Brunswick. His research focuses on transnational labor regulation, trade and labor provisions, and international economic law. He also has consulted to the United States Government, the ILO, and recently participated in a review of trade and labor agreements for the European Union's efforts to reform its trade, sustainability, and development chapters.

TENA KONJEVIĆ

tkonjevic@pravos.hr
 Faculty of Law Osijek, Croatia; Central European Academy Budapest, Hungary

Tena Konjević, Master of Laws, is a teaching assistant at the Department of Labor Law and Social Security Law Sciences at the Faculty of Law Osijek in Croatia, and from September 2022, she is a doctoral researcher and a Ph.D. student at the Deák Ferenc Doctoral School of Law in cooperation with the Central European Academy in Budapest, Hungary. Her field of interest is European Labour Law, with an emphasis on the protection of workers' rights and the prevention of discriminatory treatment in employment, especially in the scope of the cross-border movement of workers in the EU.

TENA KONJEVIĆ

tkonjevic@pravos.hr
 Central European Academy

Tena Konjević, Master of Laws, is working as the Teaching Assistant at the Chair of Labour and Social Security Law Sciences at the Faculty of Law Osijek, Josip Juraj Strossmayer University, Croatia. Also, she is a Ph.D. candidate at the Deák Ferenc Doctoral School of Law and a researcher at the Central European Academy in Budapest, Hungary. Her main field of research is European Labour Law, with an emphasis on the protection of workers' rights and equal treatment in the cross-border movement of workers. Previously, she worked in Law offices in Zagreb, Croatia.

JAKUB KOROBCZUK

jakub.korobczuk@linklaters.com
Linklaters

(no bio provided)

ŁUKASZ KORPOROWICZ

Lkorporowicz@wpia.uni.lodz.pl
University of Lodz

Professor at the University of Lodz; Vice-Rector for Research; Director of the Centre for Anglo-American Legal Tradition, Faculty of Law and Administration. Main research areas: reception of Roman law in England and English legal history.

MARTA KOZAK-MAŚNICKA

m.kozak@wpia.uw.edu.pl
University of Warsaw

Marta Kozak-Maśnicka is a PhD student in the Faculty of Law and Administration at the University of Warsaw (Department of Labour Law and Social Security). She is also a researcher at the Center for Research on the Law of Eastern Europe and Central Asia. Her scientific interests in labour law concentrate on the legal protection of whistleblowers in Europe and Poland.

RÜDIGER KRAUSE

Lehrstuhl.Krause@jura.uni-goettingen.de Georg-August-University

Rüdiger Krause is Professor for Civil Law and Labour Law and Director of the Institute for Labour Law, Georg-August-University Göttingen, Germany. He has written numerous books, articles and comments mainly on German and European Labour Law. He is author of the report for the 71. German Lawyers Conference on the digitisation of work (2016) and of three other reports for German Ministries of Labour at federal level on employee data protection (2017 and 2023) and at state level on public procurement (2019). He is co-editor of the German Journal "Soziales Recht" and speaker of the German Labour Law Professor Association.

JEDIDIAH KRONCKE

jkroncke@hku.hk
University of Hong Kong

Dr. Jedidiah Kroncke is an associate professor of law at the University of Hong Kong. Trained as an anthropologist and as a lawyer, his scholarship uses comparative and historical methods to explore issues related to alternative labor and property institutions. His past projects include work on cooperative landholding, the role of labor and employment law in development, employee owned corporations, comparative union democracy, and the role of property and labor rights in democratization. New projects include republican conceptions of the corporation, versions of economic democracy in anti-authoritarian legal reform, and the democratic implications of US-China economic integration.

ALICE KRZANICH

(no e-mail provided)
University of Aberdeen

Alice Krzanich is a lecturer at the University of Aberdeen, where she teaches in the areas of private law, law and gender, and legal history. She is originally from New Zealand, where she practised as a lawyer. In 2022 she completed her PhD thesis titled: "Female Domestic Servants and the Law: An Analysis of Gender, Class and the Contract of Service in Early Nineteenth-Century Scotland".

MONIKA KRZYSZKOWSKA-DĄBROWSKA

monika.krzyzkowska-dabrowska@linklaters.com
Linklaters

Monika is a Polish qualified lawyer and a widely recognized labour law expert with +20 years of experience encompassing the preparation and negotiation of labour law documents, advice on employment, including in particular regarding managerial staff, individual dismissals and collective redundancies, posting of employees, all current employee matters as well as a wide spectrum of restructuring issues. She has authored many publications in both the local and foreign professional press in the field of employment law and has published a commentary on amendments to the Labour Code. Her most recent publication is a practical guide on remote work (Wolters Kluwer 2020).

PIOTR KRZYŻANIAK

p.krzyzaniak1234@gmail.com
Workers' Initiative Labour Union (OZZ Inicjatywa Pracownicza)/Adam Mickiewicz University in Poznań

Long-time activist of the Workers' Initiative Labour Union (OZZ Inicjatywa Pracownicza). Labour union official representing employees in labour court and coordinator of the Union Legal Group. PhD student at The Faculty of Law and Administration at the Adam Mickiewicz University in Poznań.

MAGDALENA KUBA

mkuba@wpia.uni.lodz.pl
University of Lodz, Kozminski University

Ph.D. in Law, Assistant Professor in the Department of Labor Law, University of Lodz, and in the Division of Labor Law, Kozminski University; author of publications in the field of individual labor law, labour market and personal data protection

MIRIAM KULLMANN

Miriam.Kullmann@ru.nl
Radboud University

Miriam Kullmann is an Associate Professor in labour and social security law at Radboud University and an independent expert in the European Committee of Social Rights (Council of Europe). Her research interests are flexible (cross-border) work relationships, algorithmic discrimination, and the future of labour law.

PANKAJ KUMAR

pankajvidyan@gmail.com
ICAR

Dr Pankaj Kumar is an expert on 'contract labour issues'. A PhD from JNU, New Delhi, Dr Kumar has done extensive field research on Contract labour in India and China. Off late his book titled "Law & and public policy on Contract labour in India- with field insights from China" was published by Springer-Nature. Dr Kumar is a proponent of collective bargaining methods wherein the production concerns of employers are also covered.

ATTILA KUN

kun.attila@kre.hu
KRE ÁJK & NKE ÁNTK, Budapest, Hungary

Professor, Head of Department, Károli Gáspár University of the Reformed Church in Hungary (KRE), Faculty of Law, Department of Labour Law and Social Security; Professor, Hungarian National University of Public Service (NKE), Faculty of Public Governance and International Studies, Department of Human Resources

HEATHER KURZBAUER

h.kurzbauer@uva.nl

University of Amsterdam Faculty of Law

Heather Kurzbauer (JD/LLM/PhD) studied art history, sociology, and music at Yale University, receiving her Bachelor's degree cum laude and Master's degree with Honors. She received her JD/LLM at the University of Amsterdam (UvA 1999) and her PhD in law (UvA June 2022) after successfully defending her thesis: Symphonic Metamorphoses: Variations on vulnerability: orchestral musicians' employment in times of crisis. A senior lecturer at the UvA, she shares her vision on cultural labor challenges at many international fora, serves on the Board of Directors of the Platform for Freelance Musicians and was recently appointed to the Dutch Fair Practice team (ACCT).

MERVE KUTLU MUTLUER

mervekutlu@anadolu.edu.tr

Anadolu University

Merve KUTLU MUTLUER studied law at Marmara University in Istanbul, Turkey.(2009-2013) After she obtained a master's degree in 2015 at SOAS University of London, UK. After her LLM, she was an intern at ILO, Geneva. She later served as a researcher at Anadolu University (2017-2022) where received his doctoral degree under the supervision of Prof. Dr Muhittin ASTARLI. She defended her doctoral thesis entitled "Workplace Internal Regulations in Comparative and Turkish Labour Law", at Anadolu University on 21.01.2022. Her research interests labour law in general, working conditions, non-standard employment, digitalisation and society, working time regulations, collective labour law.

OLENA KYSELOVA

lenakiseleva2008@gmail.com

Sumy state university

Olena Kyselova is an associate Professor of Administrative, Commercial Law, and Financial economic security at the Academic and Research Institute of Law Sumy State University. Her research interests entail protection of human rights in labor; differentiation of legal regulation of labor; responsibility in labor law; international standards in regulating social and labor relations. She is also interested in studying the issues of gender equality and the normative consolidation of guarantees of equality in the legislation of Ukraine. She is a member of the Ukrainian Association of Labor Law Specialists.

CLAIRE LA HOVARY

lahovary@ilo.org

ILO

Dr. Claire La Hovary is a Senior Specialist on International Labour Standards at the ILO's Bureau for Workers Activities.

FEMKE LAAGLAND

(no e-mail provided)

Radboud University

Femke Laagland is a professor of labour law at the Radboud University in Nijmegen who is specialized in cross-border labour, fundamental rights and European law. She is also a crown member of the Dutch Social and Economic Council (SER). The Council is an advisory body in which employers, employees and independent experts (Crown-appointed members) work together to reach agreement on key social and economic issues.

EVA LACKOVÁ

lackova.evi@gmail.com

University of Campania Luigi Vanvitelly, Italy

Eva Lacková holds a PhD in Labour Law and currently is a Postdoctoral Researcher at the Italian University of Campania "Luigi Vanvitelli". She obtained her law degree both in Slovakia and in Italy. Her research interests lie in the area of technological impact on founding labour law categories and general working conditions.

SANDRA LALETA

sandra.laleta@pravri.uniri.hr
Faculty of Law University of Rijeka

Born in Zadar. Graduated from the Law Faculty of the University of Rijeka in 1988. Since February 1989 employed at the Rijeka Law Faculty. Head of the Chair of Labour and Social Law. LL.M. obtained in 2003 with the thesis Liability for Damages Caused by Worker at Work to Third Persons (Comparison with German, Austrian and EU Law). Ph.D. earned in 2011 at the Law Faculty of the University of Zagreb with the thesis Termination of Employment Contract. Project head of the Croatian Science Foundation Scientific Project Flexicurity and New Forms of Employment (2015-2018).

LUCIE LAMARCHE

lamarche.lucie@uqam.ca
Université du Québec à Montréal

Lucie Lamarche teaches social and labor law as well as human rights international and domestic law and women's rights at Université du Québec à Montréal, Canada. She is an administrator of Québec Civil Rights and Liberties Association. Recent publication: « The Right to the Continuous Improvement of Living Conditions as a Meta Right and the Need to Reassess the Progressive Realisation of Social Rights and of the Right to Social Security: Canada as a Case Study » in The Right to the Continuous Improvement of Living Conditions Responding to Complex Global Challenges, Hart Publishing, 2021, 109-130.

INGRID LANDAU

ingrid.landau@monash.edu
Monash University

Ingrid is a socio-legal scholar whose research spans labour law, corporate accountability, regulatory studies and transnational governance. She is a Senior Lecturer in the Department of Business Law and Taxation at Monash Business School, and a member of the Labour, Equality and Human Rights (LEAH) Research Group. Ingrid holds a Doctorate of Philosophy in Law from Melbourne Law School, and Bachelors of Asian Studies (Hons)(Vietnamese) and Law (Hons) from the Australian National University. Her latest book, Human Rights Due Diligence and Labour Governance, will be published by Oxford University Press in 2023.

BRIAN LANGILLE

brian.langille@utoronto.ca
University of Toronto

Professor of Law, University of Toronto. Recent publications include Langille and Trebilcock (eds) Social Justice and the World of Work: Possible Global Futures (Hart, 2023).

MARTA LASEK-MARKEY

mlasek@tcd.ie
Trinity College Dublin

Marta Lasek-Markey is a postdoctoral researcher at the School of Law at Trinity College Dublin. She completed her PhD at Trinity College Dublin in 2022 under Prof. Mark Bell's supervision. Her doctoral project on the posting of workers was funded by the Irish Research Council and received the 2023 Brian Bercusson Award for outstanding research in EU labour law, presented by the European Trade Union Confederation (ETUC). Marta has published in leading journals, including the Industrial Law Journal and the European Law Review. She is the author of "Law, Precarious Work and Posted Workers" (Routledge, 2023).

TOAN LE

tcle@swin.edu.au

Swinburne University of Technology

Toan Le is a senior lecturer at Swinburne University of Technology. Linked by the theme of advancing social justice and governance in society, Toan research in land and workplace conflicts in Asia. His latest commentary is "Mercedes in Two Years?" Grab Workers' Mounting Discontent and Wildcat Strikes in Vietnam in the Asian Labour Review.

AGNIESZKA LECHMAN-FILIPIAK

agnieszka.lechman-filipiak@dlapiper.com

DLA Piper Giziński Kycia sp. k.

Agnieszka Lechman-Filipiak, attorney-at-law, master's degree in economics, partner at DLA Piper Giziński, Kycia sp. k., and head of the Warsaw Employment team. Agnieszka has more than 20 years of experience in advising on employment law and corporate law. Her field of expertise covers both individual and collective employment law. She specialises in models of engagement, termination of employment, group redundancies and transfers of employing establishment. She also has extensive experience in the hiring of senior executives, discrimination in employment, unfair competition and working time issues. She advises international corporations and leading Polish companies from various sectors, including finance, power, pharmaceutical.

DESIREE LECLERCQ

leclercq@cornell.edu

Cornell University

Professor LeClercq teaches international labor law at Cornell University's School of Industrial and Labor Relations in Ithaca, New York, USA. Her research places marginalized workers at the center of global and economic policies. Before joining the ILR School, LeClercq was a Director for Labor Affairs at USTR. Prior to joining USTR, LeClercq was a legal officer for the ILO in Geneva, Switzerland, where she specialized in maritime labor law and trade agreements.

MARIA CECILIA DE ALMEIDA LEMOS

mclemos@udf.edu.br

Maria Cecilia de Almeida Monteiro Lemos

Postdoctoral in progress in Labor Law at the Universitat de València. PhD in Law, State and Constitution from the University of Brasília, approved in first place in the Research Line Internationalization, Work and Sustainability. Master in Social Relations Law - Sub-Area: Labor Law, from the Pontifical Catholic University of São Paulo. Specialist in Labor Law and Procedure from the Pontifical Catholic University of São Paulo and in Constitutional Labor Law from the University of Brasília. Bachelor of Laws from the Pontifical Catholic University of Campinas. Full Professor and Adjunct Coordinator of the Master's Course in Relationship Law at the UDF.

SUZANNE LEPPEN

suzanne.leppen@wolterskluwer.com

Wolters Kluwer Legal & Regulatory - International Group

(no bio provided)

LOIC LEROUGE

loic.lerouge@u-bordeaux.fr

Centre for Comparative Labour and Social Security Law - CNRS-University of Bordeaux

Holder of the International research chair in comparative occupational health studies (CIECST), his research consists in studying how the law tackles health and safety at work issues under a comparative labour and social security law approach (national law, law from foreign countries, international law). In order to enrich my research, I initiate a dialogue with other disciplines and with stakeholders.

GILLIAN LESTER

(no e-mail provided)
Columbia Law School

Gillian Lester is Dean and the Lucy G. Moses Professor of Law at Columbia Law School. Dean Lester's research has explored the design of social insurance laws and regulations, public finance policy, and workplace intellectual property law. She is the author of numerous books and articles and is co-author of one of the leading casebooks on employment law, Employment Law Cases and Materials. Dean Lester is a member of the American Law Institute and was an advisor to the ALI Restatement of Employment Law. She also serves on the Board of Directors for the Legal Aid Society of New York.

JORGE LEYTON

jorge.leyton@bristol.ac.uk
University of Bristol

Jorge Leyton is a PhD candidate at the University of Bristol. He completed his undergraduate studies at the Catholic University of Chile (2011) and his Master of Laws at the University College London (2015). His doctoral research is focused on the impact that platform work has made on the legal frameworks that sustain the right to organise and freedom of association in general.

SIMEN MCADAM LIUM

s.m.lium@jus.uio.no
University of Oslo

Writing phd thesis on "Termination agreements in employment relationships". Experience as lawyer/partner for 15 years in Wikborg Rein, one of Norway's major law firms.

JULIETA LOBATO

jlobato@derecho.uba.ar
Max Planck Institute for Comparative Public Law and International Law (Heidelberg, Germany)

PhD Candidate at the University of Buenos Aires (Argentina). Visiting scholar at the Max Planck Institute for Comparative Public Law and International Law (Heidelberg, Germany).

MILTON LOPES MARQUES

marquesmilton@hotmail.com
Federal University of Minas Gerais (UFMG)

Milton Lopes Marques is a student at the Federal University of Minas Gerais (UFMG). He has been working for two years as an intern at the Slave Labor and Human Trafficking Clinic (CTETP) at UFMG, offering free legal assistance to the victims of these crimes. In addition, he is a researcher for the project "Statistical and socioeconomic analysis regarding the inspection of slavery analogous work in the state of Minas Gerais/ Brazil", which is developed in partnership between the CTETP and the Brazilian Public Ministry of Labor.

CATHARINA LOPES SCODRO

catharina.lopes-scodro@etu.unistra.fr
CNRS - University of Strasbourg

Catharina LOPES SCODRO started her doctoral studies as CNRS PhD Candidate in January 2023, at the DRES research unit and the European Birds of Passage project. Her PhD thesis focuses on the regulation of au pairing in the European Union, specifically in France, by investigating the impact of gender and citizenship status on the normative structure.

JONATHAN LORD

j.d.lord@salford.ac.uk
University of Salford

Jonathan is a Senior Lecturer in HRM and Employment Law at Salford Business School who has previously worked as a HR Director, Manager and Consultant. He is a Chartered Fellow of the CIPD, a Fellow of the Higher Education Academy, as well as a Member of the British Academy of Management and Industrial Law Society. His specialist research area focuses on employment tribunals, labour law and workers' rights. He has also extensively researched employment tribunals and their importance within the employment relationship. He leads on the Labour Law and Employment Relations Research Group which is part of the LLRN

JULIA LÓPEZ LÓPEZ

julia.lopez@upf.edu
Univ. Pompeu Fabra

Julia Lopez-Lopez is Professor of Labour Law and Social Security Law at Universitat Pompeu Fabra Law School (Barcelona) since 1996 and researcher in the research group for Labour and Social Security Law GRETTISS. She was also member of the steering committee of the LLRN, and was part of the organizing committee of the Inaugural Conference. Her work has been published by OUP, CUP, Russell Sage Foundation, Wolters Kluwert, Lavori i Diritto, Comparative Labor Law and Policy Journal, Bomarzo. Her main research topics collective labour rights, gender equality and social protection.

AGATA LUDERA-RUSZEL

agata_lud@o2.pl
University of Rzeszów

Ph.D. Agata Ludera-Ruszel - Adjunct in the Institute of Legal Sciences University of Rzeszow and Judge in District Court in Mielec. Member of Polish Association for Labour Law and Social Security. Awarded by the Scholarship of the Ministry of Science and Higher Education for Outstanding Achievements For the Young Scholars. She holds a position of a reviewer of several recognized peer-reviewed national and international journals. She is an reviewer of the National Centre for Research and Development. Member of scientific and organizational committee of national and international scientific conferences.

LILACH LURIE

lilachlurie@tauex.tau.ac.il
Tel-Aviv University

Dr. Lilach Lurie is a senior lecturer at Tel-Aviv University, Department of Labor Studies. She is also a faculty member at the Herczeg Institute on Aging at Tel-Aviv University. Her research spans the fields of employment law, labor law, pension and retirement, industrial relations and social security. Lurie has a Ph.D. in Law from Tel-Aviv University. She was a visiting researcher at Cornell University, Georgetown University and Brandeis University. Lurie's articles were published in top international journals within her field.

SILVIA MAGAGNOLI

silvia.magagnoli@gmail.com
Silvia Magagnoli

She is a PhD student in labour law at the University of Milan. In 2019, she graduated with 110/110 cum laude in labour law with a thesis entitled "Protection of the professionalism of the worker and the right to training in the employment relationship" supervisor Prof. Carinci. She spent periods of study at the Université Paris 1 Panthéon Sorbonne and the University of Cambridge. She has been a lawyer since 2022. Her research focuses on migrants' labour law and precarious work.

SABRINE MAGOGA-SABATIER

sabrine.magoga@unine.ch
University of Neuchatel

Sabrine Magoga Sabatier is a PhD candidate and Research assistant at the Law Faculty of the University of Neuch_tel. She has a MLaw degree in Swiss social and public law and a LLM in French business law. She worked for 19 years as a Company Legal Director and works currently as a lawyer for the Employment Service of the Canton of Neuch_tel Switzerland. She manages labour law issues such as undeclared work, occupational health, redundancy and unemployment legal matters. Since 2020, her research work concerns social protection of platforms activities and related labour law issues.

DAVID MANGAN
 (no e-mail provided)
 Maynooth University

A Canadian-trained lawyer, David is based in Ireland at Maynooth University. He is currently a Global Professor at KU Leuven, Faculty of Law & Criminology, and a Visiting Professor at the University of Pescara-Chieti. He is also an Adjunct Professor at the universit  catholique de Lyon, and Osgoode Hall Law School Professional Development. David is a member of the Editorial Board of the European Labour Law Journal, and a European Developments editor; co-editor of the Wolters Kluwer blog Global Workplace Law & Policy; and a member of the Editorial Board of the Italian Labour Law e-Journal. David is also a Ph.D. supervisor with Advance CRT which is funded by the Irish Science Foundation.

SONJA ANNA MANGOLD
 smangold@uni-bremen.de Bremen University

Sonja Mangold is a lawyer and postdoctoral researcher at the University of Bremen (Germany). She completed her PhD in 2018 in the field of European labour and anti-discrimination law. She is currently working as co-director on a research project on platform work and data protection, which is funded by the Hans B ckler Foundation. Her research interests include labour law in the digitalisation, consumer privacy and employment privacy law.

ELIZA MANIEWSKA
 e.maniewska@wpia.uw.edu.pl
 University of Warsaw

PhD Eliza Maniewska, Doctor of Law, graduate of the Faculty of Philosophy and the Faculty of Law and Administration at University Warsaw . In the years 1998-2023 employed in the Supreme Court, lately as a member of the Supreme Court Research and Analyses Office. In 2007 she passed the judicial exam with a very good result; entered on the list of legal advisers. From 2018, a lecturer at the Faculty of Law and Administration of the University of Warsaw in the Department of Labour Law and Social Policy. Author of many publications in the field of labour and constitutional law.

VIRGINIA MANTOUVALOU
 v.mantouvalou@ucl.ac.uk
 UCL

Virginia Mantouvalou is Professor of Human Rights and Labour Law at University College London (UCL), Faculty of Laws. Her books include Structural Injustice and Workers' Rights (OUP 2023), funded through a British Academy Fellowship, and Philosophical Foundations of Labour Law (co-edited with Hugh Collins and Gillian Lester). She is articles co-editor of the Modern Law Review, member of the editorial board of the Stanford Studies in Human Rights, Co-Editor of the UK Labour Law Blog and the Studies in Law and Social Justice and was Joint Editor of Current Legal Problems.

EMILIANO MARAN
 maran@jur.uni-frankfurt.de Goethe Universit t Frankfurt

Research Assistant at Goethe University Frankfurt, co-coordinator of the European Centre of Expertise in the Field of Labour Law. Among his research interests, the issues relating to temporary agency work and those concerning the freedom of association and the representativeness of the social partners.

STEFANIA MARASSI
 S.Marassi@hhs.nl
 The Hague University of Applied Sciences / Leiden University

Stefania Marassi is a Senior Lecturer in Labour Law and a member of the research group "Smart Sensor Systems" at The Hague University of Applied Sciences (The Netherlands). She is also a Ph.D. candidate at Leiden University. She currently conducts research on the use of wearable sensor devices to prevent occupational health and safety risks and promoting well-being at work and the intersection with European data protection law.

ÁNGELA MARTIN-POZUELO LOPEZ

Angela.Martin-Pozuelo@uv.es

UNIVERSITAT DE VALÈNCIA - ESTUDI GENERAL (UVEG)

Current professional status: - Assistant Professor in the Department of Labour Law and Social Security since January 2022.
- Accredited to Lecturer Professor since 2021. Academic data:
- PhD in Labour and Social Security Law, 2021. - Official Master's Degree in Business Law: commercial, labour and tax advice, 2017. - Double Degree in Business Administration and Law, 2014. Research topics: - Social Security coordination in the European Union Law. - Telerwork and International telerwork. - European Union Private International Labour Law. - Minimum Vital Income in Spain. - New: climate change and Labour Law Publications:
Dialnet: <https://dialnet.unirioja.es/servlet/autor?codigo=4231162>
ORCID: <https://orcid.org/0000-0001-5518-5688>

PAULINA MATYJAS LYSAKOWSKA

matyjas.lysakowska@gmail.com

Uniwersytet Jana Kochanowskiego w Kielcach

I am an assistant professor at the Jan Kochanowski University in Kielce at the Faculty of Law and Social Sciences. I am interested in labor law both scientifically and practically because I have been working as a legal adviser for over a dozen years. I am interested in non-contractual employment relationships and the principles of employing employees on the basis of appointment.

TOMMASO MASERATI

tommaso.maserati@unimi.it

University of Milan

Tommaso Maserati (he/him) is a last year Ph.D. candidate in Labour Law at the University of Milan. His research is mainly focused on the nature of employment contract, working time and technology. His Ph.D. thesis deals with the notion of digital labour through an enquiry concerning the legal-formal construction of the concepts of work and working time, investigating the socio-historical basis of their formation, their personal and territorial boundaries, as well as their functionalisation to increased flexibility and invisibilisation of work (and time devoted to it) in contemporary legal discourses.

DÁIRE MCCORMACK-GEORGE

mccormd3@tcd.ie

Dáire is a trainee solicitor at a large commercial law firm in Dublin, Ireland. He previously clerked at the Irish courts and taught at universities in Dublin after obtaining law degrees from Dublin and Oxford. During his studies, he held visiting research positions at UCL and KU Leuven. His work has been published in a number of Irish, European and international law journals. He has an interest in the theoretical foundations of employment and labour law and the migratory aspects of employment and labour law particularly in respect of refugees and asylum seekers. He occasionally tweets about his work @dairemccg.

MICHAŁ MATUSZAK

mmatuszak@wz.uw.edu.pl

University of Warsaw

Michał Matuszak is an attorney-at-law and associate professor at Faculty of Management (University of Warsaw). He is a specialist in the field of labour law and sports law.

SHAE MCCRYSTAL

shae.mccrystal@sydney.edu.au

The University of Sydney

Shae McCrystal is Professor of Labour Law at the University of Sydney Law School. Professor McCrystal has published extensively on the regulation of industrial action, and the intersection of competition regulation and labour law. Her two most recent books are 'Strike Ballots, Democracy and Law', Oxford University Press, 2020 (with Breen Creighton, Catrina Denvir, Richard Johnstone and Alice Orchiston), and 'Labour in Competition Law', Cambridge University Press, 2022 (editor with Sanjukta Paul and Ewan McGaughey).

JACK MEAKIN

j.meakin@leeds.ac.uk
 University of Leeds

Dr Jack Meakin is a Lecturer in Law at the University of Leeds. His research draws on legal theoretical and socio-legal insights to comprehend the strategic use of law in the context of industrial relations. He is currently the principal investigator of an ESRC New Investigator Grant project, TRACTION: Transnational Labour Constitutionalism, which evaluates the opportunities and limitations of transnational strategic litigation and the role of transnational labour law regimes in the constitutional protection of work.

FERNANDA MELO

fernanda.mendoncamelo@gmail.com
 Universidade Federal de Minas Gerais (UFMG)

Master's student in law at the Federal University of Minas Gerais. Lawyer at the Slave Labor and Human Trafficking Clinic at UFMG.

MAAYAN MENASHE

mm2171@cam.ac.uk
 University of Cambridge

Maayan Menashe is a British Academy Postdoctoral Fellow and Affiliated Lecturer at the University of Cambridge, Faculty of Law. He is also a Fellow of the Lauterpacht Centre for International Law, and a College Research Associate at Sidney Sussex College, Cambridge. Maayan holds a PhD from the University of Cambridge (2021), for which he was awarded the Yorke Prize by the Faculty of Law. He obtained his LLM from Cambridge and his LLB from The Hebrew University of Jerusalem. Maayan's research interests include labour law, international law, global governance and law and economics.

EMANUELE MENEGATTI

e.menegatti@unibo.it
 University of Bologna

Emanuele Menegatti is Full Professor of Labour Law at the University of Bologna, where he is also a member of the Board of the PhD program in European Law. He is currently Visiting Scholar at Hastings College of Law (University of California, San Francisco). He has been guest lecturers at Sydney University Law School and visiting professors at several Universities. His main fields of specialization are Comparative and EU Labour Law.

JACQUELINE MEREDITH

meredithj@student.unimelb.edu.au
 University of Melbourne

Jacqueline Meredith is a PhD Candidate at Melbourne Law School's Centre for Employment and Labour Relations Law. Her doctoral research examines the division between work and non-work across different areas of labour law. Jacqueline holds a BCL from the University of Oxford and has previously worked as a Judge's Associate in the Supreme Court of Victoria.

MAŁGORZATA MĘDRALA

medralam@uek.krakow.pl
 Cracow University of Economics

PhD, assistant professor at the Department of Public Economic Law and Labour Law at the Cracow University of Economics; her scientific interests include individual labour law, relations between labour law and social policy, procedural aspects of labour law, as well as the protection of personal data in employment; attorney at law.

FEDERICO MICHELI

federico.micheli@unibs.it
University of Brescia

Federico Micheli is a postdoctoral researcher in labour law at the University of Brescia (Italy), where he earned his Ph.D. in 2022. During his doctoral studies, his research focused on the regulation of global value chains and the role of transnational labour regulation in promoting decent work. Prior to joining academia, he practiced as a lawyer in the fields of employment law, immigration law and anti-discrimination law.

CRISTINA MIHES

mihes@ilo.org
ILO

Ms Cristina Mihes is the Head of Labour Law and Reform Unit at ILO HQ in Geneva. Previous to her assignment as Head of LABOURLAW, Ms. Mihes was the Senior Specialist in Social Dialogue and Labour Law in the ILO Sub-regional Office for Central and Eastern Europe. Ms. Mihes has led research projects and authored, co-authored or edited a number of ILO studies and reports, technical publications and training guides on topics related, inter alia, to labour law reform, employment relationship and non-standard forms of employment, and labour dispute resolution institutions. MS. Mihes holds a PH. D. in International

MARIAGRAZIA MILITELLO

mgmilitello@lex.unict.it University of Catania

Mariagrazia Militello – PhD in European Labour Law – is Associate Professor of Labour Law at the University of Catania (Department of Law), where she teaches Antidiscrimination Law and Labour Law in the high Courts. She is a member of the Centre for the Study of European Labour Law “Massimo D’Antona” and of the editorial board of various legal journals. Her research interests cover many aspects of Labour Law. In the last few years, her research interests have been focused on work-life balance in the area of equality between men and women with regard to labour market opportunities.

FAINA MILMAN-SIVAN

fainam@univ.haifa.ac.il
University of Haifa

Faina Milman-Sivan is the University of Haifa’s Vice Dean of the Law Faculty. Her research and publications focus on critically analyzing the international labor law regime, freedom of association, and prison labor. She holds an L.L.M and JSD from Columbia University Faculty of Law and articulated at the Israeli Supreme Court. She has received various research grants, including from the Israel Science Foundation and Germany Israel Foundation (Young). She is the co-editor of Global Justice and International Labor Rights (Cambridge University Press, 2016) (with Y. Dahan and H. Lerner).

LÍVIA MIRAGLIA

liviamiraglia@gmail.com
Federal University of Minas Gerais

PHD in Labor Law. Labor Law professor and director of the Human Traffick Clinic of Federal University of Minas Gerais (UFMG). Lawyer. President of the Comission to eradicate modern slavery of the Minas Gerais bar association.

TOMASZ MIROŚLAWSKI

miroslawskitomasz@gmail.com

University of Miskolc/Central European Academy in Budapest

Graduated from the University of Silesia in Katowice. He wrote his master's thesis on the institution of the strike in the Polish labour law system. He has completed with honors the School of Law and Economy of China at the University of Warsaw in the 2021/2022 academic year. Currently, he is a PhD Candidate at the Deák Ferenc Doctoral School of Law (University of Miskolc) and intern in the Central European Academy in Budapest. Within the framework of his doctoral dissertation, he is researching the issue of monitoring in the workplace in the Visegrad countries.

SANTOSH KUMAR MISHRA

drskmishrain@yahoo.com

I, having retired from Population Education Resource Centre (PERC), Department of Lifelong Learning & Extension (DLLE), S.N.D.T. Women's University (SNDTWU: located at Mumbai, India), have made academic and research contributions in subject areas pertaining to demography & population & development education. I underwent training in demography, & acquired Ph. D. I have authored (some co-authored) 5 booklets, 4 books, 23 book chapters, 83 journal articles, 60 papers for conferences (national & international: some with bursary). I have presented my papers at international events that took place in Sweden, Australia, Tajikistan, the USA, Tanzania, Philippines, Ireland, Turkey, Nepal, Vietnam, & Pakistan.

LESZEK MITRUS

leszek.mitrus@gmail.com

Jagiellonian University in Krakow

Leszek Mitrus is a professor of Labour Law at the Jagiellonian University in Kraków. Author of about 140 publications on Polish, European, and international labour law and social security law. Member of the European Labour Law Network. From 2016 to 2018 he has been a member of the Commission for Codification of Labour Law.

BASHMAN MOHAMMED

b.mohammed.20@abdn.ac.uk

University of Aberdeen

Bashman Mohammed is currently undertaking doctoral research within the framework of worker participation in corporate governance at the School of Law, University of Aberdeen. He is a Senior Program Officer with Solidarity Center. He holds a Master of Laws from the University of London, United Kingdom and attended the Nigerian Law School and the University of Ilorin respectively. Bashman's first-hand encounters with the far-reaching consequences of unfair labor practices and abuses while growing up in an industrial estate in north eastern Nigeria informed his early life decision to study law and passion for social justice in the world of work.

MICHELE MOLE

m.mole@rug.nl

University of Groningen

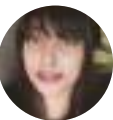

I'm currently researching the impact on employees' rights of workplace surveillance through Artificial Intelligence and the Internet of Things. I completed my Master's degree in Law at the University of Milan, after a short research stay at KU Leuven. I recently visited the European Trade Union Institute and the University of Warsaw. Alongside my doctorate in Groningen, I collaborate with the labour law section of the University of Milan. Furthermore, I lead an interdisciplinary project on the digitalisation of work (panoptiwork.eu), aimed at joint research with philosophers, sociologists, economists and computer scientists.

EMA MOOLCHAND

ema.moolchand@ymail.com

RMIT UNIVERSITY (Melbourne)

Ema Moolchand is a Senior Lawyer at KPMG Australia and a Doctoral Candidate at RMIT University in Melbourne. Her research explores the dynamics of modern slavery to provide an improved understanding on how they emerge and persist across meat and cleaning sectors in Australia.

KINGA MORAS-OLAŚ

k.m.olas@morasolas.pl

Cracow Bar Association of Attorneys-at-Law

Kinga Moras-Olaś holds a PhD in Labour Law, is a lecturer in postgraduate Labour Law studies at Jagiellonian University in Cracow. She was a fellow at Johannes Kepler Universität Linz (Austria). Graduate of the School of Austrian Law at Jagiellonian University and the University of Vienna. During her doctoral studies, she conducted research at Ruprecht-Karls-Universität in Heidelberg and Ruhr - Universität in Bochum. She has authored numerous publications on labour law and has been a speaker at national and international conferences.

JOHANN MULDER

johann.mulder@jus.uio.no

University of Oslo

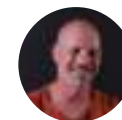

Law professor at Department of private law, Faculty of law, University of Oslo, main research and teaching fields in labour law. Managing the research programme Building labour law, and research leader for the Labour law research group together with professor Marianne Jennum Hotvedt.

GUY MUNDLAK

mundlak@tauex.tau.ac.il

Tel Aviv University

Guy Mundlak holds a joint position in Tel-Aviv University, Faculty of Law and the Department of Labour Studies (Chair) and also serves as the Bernard and Audre Rapoport Chair in the Sociology of Labor . His current research and teaching includes collective labour relations, the political economy of law and global value chains, and socio-legal analysis of professionals within organizations and their understanding of mandatory labour standards. A member of the editorial board of the International Labour Review, with responsibility for articles on labour law and industrial relations, and always on the lookout for interesting submissions!

NATALIE MUNKHOLM

nvm@law.au.dk

Natalie Munkholm

Natalie Munkholm is Associate Professor of labour and employment law at Aarhus University. She is expert for Denmark to the European Labour Law Network (ELLN), representative of Denmark to the ISLSSL, member of the board of the Danish Society for Labour Law, chairman of the board of the Danish Labour Law Research Foundation, appointed member of the Danish Board of Equal Treatment, and coordinator of the Aarhus Research group on Regulations Of Work (ARROW).

JARI MURTO

(no e-mail provided)

University of Helsinki

Jari Murto is an assistant professor (tenure track) of labour and social law at the University of Helsinki Faculty of Law. Murto's dissertation "Firm-specific group norms" was written in Finnish (2015). His main research interests are the determination on terms of employment as well as development of norm system and doctrines of labour law. In the area of social law, Murto's main research interests are different transitions in the labour market, especially just transition, lifelong learning and labour law.

ZUZANNA MUSKAT GORSKA

zuzanna.muskat-gorska@ituc-csi.org

ITUC

Zuzanna Muskat-Gorska works as Legal Officer for the International Trade Union Confederation (ITUC). She supports the ITUC's legal advocacy before the International Labour Organization and other international institutions and advises trade unions on labour law and policy. She cooperates with the Institute for Labour Law of the Katholieke Universiteit Leuven (Belgium) as external scientific collaborator. She holds LLM in international and EU law from the KU Leuven; Master of Laws from the UAM University, Poznan (Poland); MA in sociology of law from the O_ati IISL (Spain) and MA in industrial sociology from the University of the Witwatersrand (South Africa).

KAROL MUSZYNSKI

karol.muszynski@kuleuven.be
KU Leuven - CeSO - BE0419.052.173

Karol Muszynski is a post-doctoral researcher at Centre for Sociological Research, KU Leuven, Belgium and an assistant professor at Faculty of Sociology, University of Warsaw, Poland. He is a socio-legal scholar interested in employment relations, non-standard forms of employment (in particular platform work), labour law violations and circumventions, as well as in access to justice.

KAMILA NAUMOWICZ

kamila.naumowicz@gmail.com
University of Warmia and Mazury in Olsztyn

PhD in comparative law, attorney at law, Assistant Professor in the Department of Labour Law and Social Law at the Faculty of Law and Administration of the University of Warmia and Mazury in Olsztyn, Poland. Expert of the Ministry of Digitization and the Chancellery of the Prime Minister of Poland in the field of open data and protection of privacy. President of the University Commission on Equal Opportunities and co-Author of the University Gender Equality Plan. Research concentrated on the questions of the influence of the new technologies on the labour market, with special attention to vulnerable and discriminated groups.

STEEN NAVRBJERG

sen@faos.dk
FAOS - Dept. of Sociology, University of Copenhagen

Steen E. Navrbjerg has been working for 30 years on Industrial Relations at University of Copenhagen as member of the research group FAOS – Employment Relations Research Centre. His expertise is in cooperation and negotiations at company level, with a special interest in shop stewards role in cooperation with management, especially in multinational companies (MNCs). Main contemporary research interests are changing value chains' influence on national Industrial relations; employers' organisation's organisational structure and development; union organisations; Industrial Relations and forum shopping in aviation.

ALAN NEAL

alan.neal@warwick.ac.uk
University of Warwick

Emeritus Professor of Law, University of Warwick. Employment Judge, London Central Office of the Employment Tribunals. Founding Editor of The International Journal of Comparative Labour Law & Industrial Relations (1985-1997). Convenor of the European Association of Labour Court Judges.

TIEN DUNG NGUYEN

nguyentindung294@gmail.com
Géza Marton Doctoral School of Legal Studies, University of Debrecen, Hungary

PhD student at the Faculty of Law, University of Debrecen, Hungary, and senior lecturer in labour law at Hanoi Law University, Vietnam

CÉCILE NICOD

cecile.nicod@univ-lyon2.fr
Université Lumière

Cécile Nicod is an associate professor at the University Lumière Lyon 2 (France). She is the director of the trade union training institute (IFS, Univ. Lyon2) a structure under agreement with the Ministry of Labor which provides training to members of trade unions and labor arbitrators. Her researches are focused on the study of industrial relations law, concerning in particular the collective bargaining and the collective rights of workers. Recently, she directed a research on the use of referendum to adopt collective agreements in very small companies (part of the DIALAURA project, France Stratégie 2019-2022).

MAAYAN NIEZNA

maayan.niezna@law.ox.ac.uk
University of Oxford

Maayan Niezna is a Postdoctoral Research Fellow in Modern Slavery and Human Rights at the Bonavero Institute of Human Rights, University of Oxford. Her research focuses on trafficking for labour exploitation and the regulation of labour migration. She holds PhD in Law from Kent Law School, MSc in Human Rights from the London School of Economics, and LL.B in Law and Philosophy from the Hebrew University of Jerusalem. She previously led the legal work on trafficking at the Hotline for Refugees and Migrants-Israel, and worked at the Office of the National Anti-trafficking Coordinator, Israeli Ministry of Justice, and UNHCR.

CHRISTINA NIFOROU

christina.niforou@aru.ac.uk
Christina Niforou

Christina has held academic positions in the Universities of Warwick and Birmingham and her core research is in the area of employment/Human Resource Management practices and labour standards in MNCs and Global Value Chains. It largely focuses on issues of ethics, compliance and accountability adopting an international and comparative/regional governance perspective. She is a supporter of interdisciplinary research borrowing conceptually from political science, economic geographers and development studies scholars. She has published articles in leading journals and some of her most significant contributions to the field appear in the British Journal of Industrial Relations and Human Resource Management.

REBECCA ROSE NOCELLA

r.nocella@pgr.reading.ac.uk
REBECCA ROSE NOCELLA

Rebecca Rose Nocella is a PhD candidate and associate lecturer at the University of Reading School of Law. She teaches criminal law and gender and law. She is an associate fellow of the higher education academy (AFHEA); she holds an LLM in international law from the University of Reading and a BA and Ma in Law from the University of Bologna. In her research, she investigates the relationship between gender, sexuality and the law by specifically focusing on how to enforce adult content creators' labour rights in the context of the British porn industry gig economy.

TONIA NOVITZ

tonia.novitz@bristol.ac.uk
University of Bristol

Tonia Novitz is a Professor of Labour Law at the University of Bristol Law School in the UK. She is a graduate of the University of Canterbury (Christchurch, New Zealand) and Balliol College, Oxford. She is currently chair of the steering committee of the Labour Law Research Network (LLRN), a UK representative on the advisory board of International Lawyers Assisting Workers (ILAW), and a Vice President of the UK Institute of Employment Rights. She was a founding co-director of the Bristol Centre for Law at Work. Her research interests encompass collective labour rights, international and EU trade, sustainability and migration.

MASAYUKI NUMATA

(no e-mail provided)
Hosei University

I study labor law and social security law. Currently, I am interested in labor law and social security law issues in the platform economy. I am looking forward to participating in LLRN6.

SASCHA OBRECHT

sascha.obrecht@univie.ac.at University of Vienna

Sascha Obrecht is a university assistant at the Institute for Labour and Social Law at the University of Vienna. In addition to his time as a trainee lawyer, he can also draw on experience from the administration as a former staff member of the Minister of Social Affairs responsible for labour law and occupational health and safety. He has published papers in the field of labour and social law and is a regular lecturer. Currently he is also member of the second chamber of the Austrian Parliament.

MAIKO OKAMOTO

(no e-mail provided)

The University of Kitakyushu

Maiko Okamoto is an associate professor of labour law at the University of Kitakyushu. She is interested in the adjustment of working conditions according to workers' health and their family life. She researches the legal right to change working hours, the process of fulfilling obligations to work of the contract of employment and cooperation of the employer, and the nature of time and the interpretation of working hours in the contract of employment. She plans to research the leave system for women's health care that respects the privacy of workers.

YVONNE OLDFIELD

yvonne.oldfield@vuw.ac.nz

Victoria University of Wellington

I have worked in labour and employment law for over 35 years, including time in the union movement, in the tertiary education sector, and as a member of the employment institutions. Currently I am a full time PhD student, also teaching labour law part time, at Victoria University of Wellington law school. My research explores the definition of worker in international labour law.

MARIUS OLIVIER

olivier@iislp.net.au

North-West University & Nelson Mandela University (South Africa); University of Western Australia

Marius Olivier is an experienced Social Security, Social Protection and Migration Consultant, Legal Expert, Scholar and Researcher. He holds the BA (Law), LLB and LLD degrees and also holds ad-hoc professorial appointments with Nelson Mandela University and Northwest University (South Africa) and the University of Western Australia (Australia). He has published widely and has rendered comprehensive legal, advisory and policy services to international and regional organisations, several governments, social security institutions, and development agencies and donor institutions involved in social protection.

AIKATERINI ORFANIDI

aikaterini.orfanidi@eui.eu

European University Institute

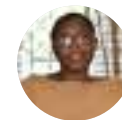

Katerina Orfanidi is a third-year PhD researcher in law at the European University Institute, Florence, Italy (EUI). In her thesis, she examines the role of EU law in shaping precarious work in the EU. Before starting her PhD, she worked as a lawyer at a law firm, an NGO and as a freelancer in Athens, Greece. She holds an LL.M. in Comparative, European and International Laws from the EUI and a Magister Juris from the University of Oxford, UK.

ABIGAIL OSIKI

aosiki@uwc.ac.za

University of the Western Cape

Abigail Osiki currently lectures in the Mercantile and Labour Law department at the University of the Western Cape (UWC), South Africa. She is also a research associate at the Centre for Transformative Regulation of Work, UWC, Cape Town. Abigail's research background is in working poverty, non-standard forms of work, sustainable development and policy reform, with a specific interest in the informal economy in Sub-Saharan Africa. She was formerly a postdoctoral fellow at the Fairwork Project. She holds a PhD in labour law from the University of Cape Town.

WOJCIECH OSTASZEWSKI

w.ostaszewski@wpia.uw.edu.pl

University of Warsaw

Dr Wojciech Ostaszewski, assistant professor in the Department of Labour Law and Social Policy at the Faculty of Law and Administration, University of Warsaw; Attorney-at-law specialising in labour law, author and co-author of several dozen publications on labour law and social insurance.

MARTA OTTO

motto@wpia.uni.lodz.pl
UNIVERSITY OF LODZ

Marta Otto is an Assistant Professor for Labour Law, at the Faculty of Law and Administration, University of Lodz (Poland). Her scientific portfolio includes numerous international research projects and publications concerning labour law and social policy. She is a member of the Steering Committee of Labour Law Research Network (2021-23), and AI Work Team (University of Lodz). Marta Otto holds a PhD degree from the Department of Law of the European University Institute (Florence, Italy), and is a former scholar of the International Society for Labour Law and Social Security Law, COMPTRESEC (Bordeaux), CRIMT (Montreal) and Marco Biagi Foundation.

MAGDALENA PALUSZKIEWICZ

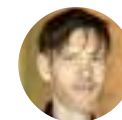

(no e-mail provided)
University of Lodz, Poland

Associate professor at the Labour Law Department at the Faculty of Law and Administration, University of Lodz.

WAYNE PALMER

wayne.palmer@uni-bielefeld.de Bielefeld University

Wayne Palmer is a Senior Research and Teaching Fellow at Bielefeld University. His current research projects focus on institutional capacity to enforce labour rights of foreigners in Indonesia, revealing the similarities and differences in the government's response to evidence of rights abuse amongst high-wage professionals, trafficked fishers and asylum-seekers. Wayne currently teaches courses on labour rights enforcement and international organisations, integration in the Global South as well as on labour exploitation in the fisheries. Wayne has 15 years' experience researching and writing about Indonesian regulatory regimes related to labour migration.

FEDERICA PALMIROTTA

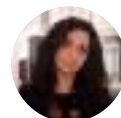

federica.palmirotta@unimore.it
Federica Palmirotta

Federica Palmirotta is a PhD student at the University of Modena and Reggio Emilia - Fondazione Marco Biagi. She graduated in Business Law at the University of Bari "Aldo Moro" with a thesis in Labour Law. Her main research interests include anti-discrimination law and the digitalization of work. Since 2020 she has been a member of the Organizing Committee of the International Conference in memory of Marco Biagi. She is also a member of the Observatory on Digital and Multilocal Work, as well as the Observatory on Gender Equality, established at the Marco Biagi Foundation.

VERONICA PAPA

vpapa@lex.unict.it
University of Catania (Department of Law)

Veronica Papa - PhD in European Labour Law - is Associate Professor of Labour Law at the University of Catania (Department of Law), where she teaches European Labour Law and Labour Law and Immigration. She is a member of the Centre for the Study of European Labour Law "Massimo D'Antona" and of the editorial board of various legal journals. Her research interests cover many aspects of Labour Law and Trade Union Law. In the last few years, her research has also focused on the intersections between migration and labour law and on in-work poverty.

OLIVIA PASQUALETO

olviapasqualetto@hotmail.com
Fundação Getulio Vargas

Labour law Professor at Fundação Getulio Vargas Vargas Law School. Researcher at the Center for Education and Research in Innovation at Fundação Getulio Vargas. PhD and Master in labour law and social security from the Faculty of Law of the University of Sao Paulo. She was a postdoctoral fellow at University of Sao Paulo.

VERA PAVLOU

vera.pavlou@glasgow.ac.uk
University of Glasgow

I'm a Lecturer in Labour Law at the University of Glasgow. I hold a PhD in Law from the European University Institute, an MA in Human Rights and a Degree in Law from the University of Athens. My research interests lie in labour migration and gender equality at work. I have worked extensively on the regulation of paid domestic work in Europe.

AMIR PAZ-FUCHS

a.paz-fuchs@sussex.ac.uk
Amir Paz-Fuchs

Amir is Professor of Law and Social Justice, and Head of the Law School, at the University of Sussex. His research and teaching interests cover Employment Law, Public Law, Social and Economic Rights, and the Welfare State. In addition, Amir is the Founding Director of Sussex Clinical Legal Education, an initiative that allows students to provide free legal advice, supervised by practitioners, to members of the community, in areas including criminal law, employment, family law, housing and welfare, environmental justice, and migration.

DANIEL PEREZ DEL PRADO

daniel.perez.delprado@uc3m.es
DANIEL PEREZ DEL PRADO

Daniel Pérez del Prado is an associate professor at Carlos III University of Madrid, Ph. D in Law (with honours) and also an economist. He is author of four books and more than a hundred articles on different topics but frequently analysed from an interdisciplinary perspective. He is specialized in Social Law and Labour Economics. He has participated in national and international conferences and meetings, has taken part in a number of research projects, some of them of international scope and has been visiting professor at some of most prestigious universities.

ADALBERTO PERULLI

adaper@unive.it
Universita Ca' Foscari Venezia

ADALBERTO PERULLI is Full Professor of Labor Law and Social Security at the Ca' Foscari University of Venice as well as Visiting Professor at the University of Paris Nanterre. Academic assignments: - E.MA Director of the European Master in Human Rights and Democratization - Director of the Master's Degree in Labor and S.S. Law at Ca' Foscari Univ. - Director of the Legal Studies Center at Ca' Foscari Univ. For the European Commission (DG V) he has carried out studies and research on the transposition of Community directives and parasubordinate work.

MARCO PERUZZI

marco.peruzzi@univr.it
University of Verona

I am an associate professor of labour law at the Department of Legal Sciences, University of Verona. My research activity focuses, in particular, on the topics of anti-discrimination law, protection of workers' health and safety, industrial relations in the European and transnational dimensions, and aspects related to the impact of new technologies on the workplace.

SIPKA PÉTER

sipka.peter@law.unideb.hu
University of Debrecen

Peter Sipka works as an assistant professor at the University of Debrecen. He defended his doctoral dissertation in 2014, which has been published as a textbook in two editions so far. (title of the PhD: The collision of the modified employer's liability with the rules of labour protection and social security in Hungary) He attends as a speaker at national and international labour law conferences and publishes in international journals regularly. Besides his academic work, he works as an attorney-at-law in a Debrecen-based law firm

SASKIA PETERS

s.s.m.peters@rug.nl
University of Groningen

Saskia Peters has been a full professor of labour law at the University of Groningen (UG) since 2013. Before this, she worked among others as a lawyer in Amsterdam. She is head of the UG's labour law department. She is editor of several leading books on European and Dutch labour law, is editor-in-chief of the renowned article-by-article commentary on Dutch labour law 'Employment contract', and (vice)chair of several committees within and outside the UG. For more information, see <https://www.rug.nl/staff/s.s.m.peters/>.

DAVID PETRI

petri.david93@gmail.com
Pazmany Peter Catholic University

My name is David Petri. I am a second-year PhD student at Pázmány Péter Catholic University in Budapest, Hungary. I graduated from the Faculty of Law in 2020. My thesis for the doctor's degree is the employer's liability for the occupational diseases. I am researching how to create a safe and healthy working environment and how to avoid the occupational diseases. Besides this I work as a trainee judge in the Budapest Environs Regional Court.

ZOLTÁN PETROVICS

petrovics.zoltan@ajk.elte.hu Eötvös Loránd University Faculty of Law (Budapest) and University of Public Service Faculty of Public Governance and International Studies (Budapest)

Assistant Professor (Eötvös Loránd University Faculty of Law), associate professor (University of Public Service Faculty of Public Governance and International Studies). He worked for several years at the Ministry of Social Affairs and Labour, the Ministry of National Economy and law firms. He has been involved in several research projects (eg CEELAB) and was a member of several jurisprudence analysis groups of the Hungarian Supreme Court. Since July 2012, he was a member of the Hungarian Industry Participation Commission (he was the chairman from 2015 to 2022). He is the editor-in-chief of the Hungarian legal journal Munkajog (Labour Law).

VINCENZO PIETROGIOVANNI

vincp@sam.sdu.dk
SDU - Southern Denmark University

Vincenzo Pietrogiovanni is Associate Professor in Labour Law at the Department Law, SDU (DK). His research and teaching are related to International, European and Comparative Labour Law and Anti-Discrimination Law. Recently he researches mainly on collective labour law (namely collective bargaining and collective actions), the role of global industrial relations in order to implement fundamental labour rights in the global supply chains, the implications on employment protection of the legal status of managers, the impact of climate change and AI on labour law, as well as minimum wage settings in Europe.

ANNA PISZCZEK

apiszczek@wpia.uni.lodz.pl
University of Lodz

Dr Anna Piszczek, assistant professor at the Department of Labour Law at the Faculty of Law and Administration of the University of Łódź, attorney-at-law, assistant to the Supreme Court judge at the Chamber of Labour and Social Insurance. Author and co-author of scientific publications in the field of labour law, including legal forms of employment, atypical employment, subordination of the employee and termination of employment.

LORENA POBLETE

lorena.poblete@conicet.gov.ar
 CONICET

Lorena Poblete holds a master's degree in Social Anthropology, and a PhD in Sociology from the École des Hautes Études en Sciences Sociales, Paris, France. Her most recent research focuses on regulatory reforms on domestic work in Latin America and digital platforms. She is a researcher at CONICET (Argentina Research Council) and a professor at Universidad de San Martín. She was a visiting scholar at Université de Lille 1, Université de Nantes (France); Freie Universität Berlin (Germany); Princeton University (USA) and McGill University (Canada). As an Alexander von Humboldt Fellow (2022-2024), she is currently a visiting scholar at Europa-Universität Viadrina.

ALJOŠA POLAJŽAR

aljosa.polajzar@um.si
 Aljoša Polajžar

Aljoša Polajžar is an Early Stage Researcher and a PhD student at the University of Maribor, Faculty of Law (period 2020-2024). His current research is mainly focused on Labour Law and Privacy Law with the PhD topic "Collective Labour Rights of Platform Workers". He graduated from the University of Maribor, Faculty of Law in 2020 (summa cum laude) with a thesis titled: "The limits of permissible surveillance of workers (with the) use of information and communications technology at the workplace: selected aspects".

NASTAZJA POTOCKA-SIONEK

nastazja.potocka-sionek@eui.eu
 European University Institute

Nastazja Potocka-Sionek is a PhD researcher at the European University Institute in Florence, finalising her doctoral dissertation entitled 'Platformisation of work: Challenges beyond employment classification'. She is also working as a postdoctoral researcher at Ca' Foscari University in Venice in a project 'Regulating algorithmic management: towards a sustainable digital workplace'. More broadly, her research interests lie in international, European and comparative labour law. She worked as an intern at the International Labour Organisation in Geneva (2019/2020), and as a research assistant at the European University Viadrina in Frankfurt (Oder) (2021/2022).

VENERA PROTOPAPA

venera.protopapa@univr.it
 Università di Verona

Venera Protopapa is an assistant professor at the University of Verona. She has coordinated the PiEUROPE project focusing on how litigation can protect migrant rights and has been part of the research team of the FARm project, an action research project aiming to prevent labor exploitation and gang-mastering in agriculture. She has published a book on strategic litigation and trade unions in Italy "Uso strategico del diritto e azione sindacale" (Mulino 2021).

PANTHIP PRUKSACHOLAVIT

panthip.p@chula.ac.th
 Chulalongkorn University

Dr. Panthip Pruksacholavit joined the Faculty of Law, Chulalongkorn University in 2014 and is now an Associate Professor of Law. She received her LLM from the University of Michigan and a JSD from Washington University in St Louis. Panthip's research interests center on Labor and Employment Law, Constitutional Law, and Comparative Law. Among her publications, she authored a chapter of the Thai Labor and Employment Laws in International Labor and Employment Laws, American Bar Association. She is a member of the Asian Society of Labour Law and a committee member of the Thai Labor Law Association.

ARIEL PRZYBYŁOWICZ

ariel.przybylowicz2@uwr.edu.pl
 Uniwersytet Wrocławski

Assistant professor at the University of Wrocław (Faculty of Law, Administration and Economics).

MAURO PUCHETA

m.l.pucheta@kent.ac.uk
University of Kent (UK)

Mauro is a Comparative Labour and Employment Lawyer at Kent Law School. He conducts research on employment law and labour law from a comparative and a Global South perspective, with a particular interest in Latin America. Specifically, Mauro focuses on human rights and labour rights in the Inter-American System of Human Rights; and just transition and workers' rights in the Global South.

NURIA PUMAR BELTRÁN

npumar@ub.edu
University of Barcelona

Nuria Pumar is associated professor of Labour Law and Social Security of the University of Barcelona and since January 2019 coordinates the Interuniversity Master on Women, Gender and Citizenship Studies. Currently she co-organizes the Legal Clinic of Women at the Law Faculty and is co-chairing the seminar "Feminist Analysis of Law", that has reached its sixteenth edition. Her main research interests are mainly about employment and social protection legislative policies at international and at European level. She has analysed different social and labour law topics linked to gender equality and non-discrimination. More CV information is provided at : <https://webgrec.ub.edu/webpages/000002/cat/npumar.ub.edu.html>

ILARIA PURIFICATO

(no e-mail provided)
University of Modena and Reggio Emilia - Marco Biagi Foundation

Iliaria Purificato is Research Fellow in Labour Law at the University of Modena and Reggio Emilia-Marco Biagi Foundation (Italy). She received a PhD in Labour, Development and Innovation from the Marco Biagi Foundation and the University of Modena and Reggio Emilia. She currently is academic tutor of the course in Labour Law and Labour Regulation in the Global Economy at the Alma Mater Studiorum University of Bologna-Campus of Forl_. She is also member of the Editorial Board of "Italian Labour Law e-Journal", and member of the Editorial Secretariat of the "Diritti Lavori Mercati International" journal.

ILDIKO RACZ-ANTAL

racz.ildiko@kre.hu
Karoli Gaspar University of the Reformed Church in Hungary

Ildiko is a Senior Lecturer at Karoli Gaspar University of the Reformed Church in Hungary. She is also a labour law expert at OPL Gunnercook legal consultancy boutique. She often participates in national and international researches. Ildiko is a frequently invited speaker at national conferences and professional trainings. She is specialized in labour law and digitalization.

MICHAŁ RACZKOWSKI

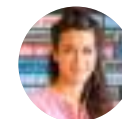

m.raczkowski@wpia.uw.edu.pl
University of Warsaw

Assistant Professor at the Department of Labour Law and Social Policy of the Faculty of Law and Administration of the University of Warsaw, advocate. In 2009-2018 he worked in the Labour, Social Security and Public Affairs Chamber, initially as an assistant judge and then - as an assistant case-law specialist - member of the Office of Studies and Analyses of the Supreme Court. Author and co-author of over 100 research publications.

SILVIA RAINONE

srainone@etui.org
ETUI and KU Leuven

Silvia Rainone is Researcher in the Europeanisation of Industrial Relations Unit of the European Trade Union Institute covering developments in EU labour and social policy with a predominant focus on the future of work, platform work and European socio-economic governance. She is an affiliated member of the Institute for Labour Law (KU Leuven) and part of the coordinating committee of the European Lawyers for Workers Network. She has a joint PhD in EU Labour Law from Tilburg University and KU Leuven.

SANGH RAKSHITA

sangh.rakshita@law.ox.ac.uk
University of Oxford

Rakshita is a Researcher on Algorithmic Management at the Bonavero Institute of Human Rights, University of Oxford for the project 'iManage'. Her research focuses upon law and policy frameworks for regulation of algorithmic management using principles from data protection law, labour law and equality law, specifically from Global South lens. She completed her master's in law (BCL) from the University of Oxford. Before joining Oxford she worked as a law and technology researcher at the Centre for Communication Governance, India and as a legislative assistant in the Parliament of India with a focus on digital rights.

SÉBASTIEN RANC

Sebastien.ranc@ut-capitole.fr
Toulouse University

I'm Associate Professor at Toulouse University. My research are about labour law and the links with commercial law.

ZANE RASNACA

zrasnaca@etui.org
KU Leuven and European Trade Union Institute

Zane Rasnača is a senior researcher at the European Trade Union Institute, visiting lecturer at the University of Lille and an affiliated member at the Institute for European Law (KU Leuven)

LUCA RATTI

luca.ratti@uni.lu
University of Luxembourg

Luca RATTI is an Associate Professor of European and Comparative Labour Law and Director of the Master in European Law (1 year) at the University of Luxembourg. He currently holds a Jean Monnet Chair in European labour law (2022-2025). From 2020 to 2023, he coordinated as PI the Horizon2020 project "WorkYP: Working, Yet Poor", focused on in-work poverty and European social citizenship. Since May 2021, he has been coordinating as co-PI an interdisciplinary project on wellbeing at work (W@W) funded by the Institute of Advanced Studies (IAS) at the University of Luxembourg (2021-2024).

GIUSEPPE ANTONIO RECCHIA

giuseppe.recchia@uniba.it Universita degli Studi di Bari Aldo Moro

Giuseppe Antonio Recchia is Associate Professor of Labour Law at the Department of Political Sciences of University of Bari Aldo Moro. His main research areas are trade union law and industrial relations, anti-discrimination law, business transformation and employment relationship, gig economy. He has widely published in this area, including the book Studio sulla giustiziabilit_ degli interessi collettivi dei lavoratori (2018), and participated in national and international projects, the most recent of which is the Italian Ministry of University and Research funded PRIN2020 on Wage, Law and Collective Bargaining, in Italy and European Union (2022-2024).

AMANDA REILLY

amanda.reilly@vuw.ac.nz
Victoria University of Wellington

Dr Amanda Reilly is a Senior Lecturer in Commercial Law at Victoria University of Wellington, New Zealand. Her research primarily focuses on Labour and Employment law particularly as it intersects with human rights. Her current projects focus on the boundary between work and private life and ways in which to regulate the threat posed to this by current and emergent technologies. She is a founder member, and the current co-chairperson of the New Zealand Labour Law Society.

ARIANNE RENAN BARZILAY

(no e-mail provided)

University of Haifa

I am a tenured senior lecturer (Associate Professor) at the University of Haifa Faculty of Law in Israel. I teach courses on labour and employment law, employment discrimination, and feminist theories. I use historical, socio-legal and gender analysis in my work, and have written on topics such as gender in the gig economy, platform work, sex discrimination in employment, work-family conflict, the history of employment regulation, and working-class feminists.

ANA RIBEIRO

aribeiro@ucp.pt

Universidade Católica Portuguesa

Ana Teresa Ribeiro is an Assistant Professor at the Universidade Católica Portuguesa, Faculty of Law (Porto), Portugal. Her Ph.D and her main areas of research concern collective bargaining and trade union representation, topics on which she has written several articles and presented several interventions on national and international conferences.

ALEKSANDAR RISTOVSKI

a.ristovski@pf.ukim.edu.mk

Ss. Cyril and Methodius University in Skopje, Iustinianus Primus Law Faculty

Aleksandar Ristovski is Associate Professor at the Ss. Cyril and Methodius University in Skopje where he teaches labour law. Has participated in several international scientific projects and has on multiple occasions been engaged as external collaborator of the ILO on labour law and industrial relations' related projects in Macedonia. He also is a national expert for North Macedonia in the European Labour Law Network and the CEElex network of national legal experts on labour law and industrial relations in Central and Eastern Europe. Since 2019, he is vice-president of the Association for Labour and Social Law of North Macedonia.

KERRY RITTICH

kerry.rittich@utoronto.ca

Kerry Rittich

Professor at the Faculty of Law at the University of Toronto. she writes in the areas of labour law, global governance, law and development, and gender and critical theory. Recent works include: "In the Middle of Things: The Political Economy of Labour Beyond the Market", European Law Open, 2023; "Labour and Labour Law in the Project of International Development" (with Diamond Ashiagbor), forthcoming, Oxford Handbook of International Law and Development. She has been a Jean Monnet fellow at the EUI and a Visiting Professor at Harvard, Brown, Sciences Po Law School, and the Center for Transnational Legal Studies, London.

PETRA ROBBEN

c.p.robbe@rug.nl

University of Groningen

Petra Robben has been a lecturer at the University of Groningen (UG) since 2006 and an assistant professor of labour law since 2017. Before her appointment at UG, she worked consecutively as a lawyer in Groningen and a corporate lawyer of an insurance company in Rotterdam. She is author of the article-by-article commentary on Dutch labour law 'Employment contract'.

KENNETH ROBERTS

kr99@cornell.edu
 Cornell University

Kenneth M. Roberts is the Richard J. Schwartz Professor of Government at Cornell University. His research and teaching interests explore labor and popular movements in Latin America and beyond, including the politics of inequality, party systems, and crises of democratic representation.

MARCO ROCCA

mrocca@unistra.fr
 CNRS - University of Strasbourg

Marco Rocca is Permanent Researcher in labour law at the French National Centre for Scientific Research (CNRS) and affiliated to the DRES research unit (UMR 7354) of the University of Strasbourg. He is Principal Investigator of the ERC Starting Grant project "European Birds of Passage – An Empirical Legal Theory of Temporary Labour Migration in Europe" (2022-2027). His research activities focus on temporary labour migration in the European Union, the impact of the European economic governance on social rights, as well as on the relationship between EU law and the international protection of labour rights.

SARA ROCCISANO

(no e-mail provided)
 Università degli Studi di Milano

Sara Roccisano is a Ph. D. candidate at University of Milan and University of Valencia, on the basis of a double doctorate agreement. She is investigating minimum wage.

EDUARDO ROCHA DIAS

eduardorochadias@unifor.br
 Universidade de Fortaleza - UNIFOR

Professor at the Post-Graduation Program of Constitutional Law of the University of Fortaleza, Brazil, and holds a Doctoral Degree awarded by the University of Lisbon

RALF ROGOWSKI

r.rogowski@warwick.ac.uk
 University of Warwick

Emeritus Professor, School of Law, University of Warwick. Rogowski has a longstanding record in research on European employment law and labour market policy. He is also engaged in empirical studies on the judiciary and the legal profession as well as anti corruption policies. He is the author of Reflexive Labour Law in the World Society and Editor of Sustainability of the European Social Model, Transforming European Employment Policy: Labour Market Transitions and the Promotion of Capability and The European Social Model and Transitional Labour Markets: Law

SEBASTIAAN ROMBOUTS

s.j.rombouts@tilburguniversity.edu
 Sebastiaan Rombouts

Associate professor - research and teaching at the crossroads of labour standards, human rights, and sustainability

MIA RÖNNMAR

mia.ronnmar@jur.lu.se
Faculty of Law, Lund University

Mia Rönnmar is Professor of Private Law, at the Faculty of Law at Lund University in Sweden, specialising in labour law and industrial relations. She is Past-President of ILERA and coordinates the Norma Research Programme, a research centre affiliated with LLRN, focusing on the legal regulation of everyday life and social integration, and the cross-boundary study of labour markets, social welfare, ageing populations and families.

CESAR FRANCISCO ROSADO MARZAN

cesar-rosadomarzan@uiowa.edu
University of Iowa

Professor César F. Rosado's scholarship has focused on workers' rights and the institutions and organizations that enforce and promote them, including labor unions, worker centers, and wage boards. His most recent doctrinal book, Principled Labor Law, won the Simón Bolívar Prize for Best Juridical Work. His current book project on "alt labor," reporting on months of participant observation in a Chicago-based worker center, explores how worker centers are building a particular moral economy for the benefit of low-wage workers. His articles and essays have appeared in many law reviews and journals in the United States, Europe, and Latin America.

ANNIKA ROSIN

annros@utu.fi
University of Turku

L.L.D Annika Rosin works as an Assistant Professor of labour and social law in the Faculty of Law, University of Turku, Finland. Previously she has been working as a doctoral candidate and postdoctoral researcher in the faculty. She is interested in international, comparative and European employment law and she has been studying the labour law status and working conditions of different atypical workers. In her doctoral thesis, she studied the labour law protection of trainees. After that, her main research interest has been labour law issues connected to platform workers.

SUPRIYA ROUTH

routh@allard.ubc.ca
The University of British Columbia

Supriya Routh is an Associate Professor at the University of British Columbia Faculty of Law.

MARTA ROZMYŚŁOWICZ

martarz@gmail.com
Adam Mickiewicz University, OZZ Inicjatywa Pracownicza

Marta Rozmyslowicz coordinates the legal team at OZZ Inicjatywa Pracownicza (Workers' Initiative) trade union in Poland. She is currently in her 4th year of law school at Adam Mickiewicz University. Marta was a union representative and a member of the warehouse health and safety commission at Amazon's Fulfillment Center in Poznań. She is a Fulbright Scholar and a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania in Philadelphia, USA.

DESMOND RYAN

desmond.ryan@tcd.ie
Desmond Ryan

Dr. Desmond Ryan is an Associate Professor and Fellow at Trinity College Dublin where he lectures and researches in Employment Law and Tort Law. He is a founding member and current committee member of the Employment Law Association of Ireland, and is the Convenor for Ireland of the Society of Legal Scholars. Desmond is also a practising barrister. He has published widely in book, journal article and conference paper form and his work has been cited by several courts including the Supreme Court of the United Kingdom and the Supreme Court of Ireland.

TATIANA SACHS

tasachs@gmail.com
Université Paris Nanterre

Tatiana Sachs teaches at the University of Paris Nanterre. She is the director of a master's degree programme. Her research focuses on the status of economic arguments in labour law and on the way labour law frames the organisation of companies and value chains. Her work has a comparative dimension.

MARIA SAGMEISTER

maria.sagmeister@univie.ac.at University of Vienna

Maria Sagmeister is a legal scholar based at University of Vienna in Austria, where she holds a Post Doc position at the interdisciplinary research platform GAIN – Gender: Ambivalent In_Visibilities. Her research areas include legal philosophy, labour law, and legal gender studies. Currently, her research focuses on the regulation of work in private households in Austria. She completed her PhD at the Department of Legal Philosophy at the University of Vienna with a thesis on the labour law protection for parents and its effect on the distribution of unpaid labour. She also has a master's degree in art history.

ALEX SANS-DALMAU

alex.sans@upf.edu
Univ. Pompeu Fabra

Alex Sans-Dalmau is a PhD candidate and teaching assistant at the University Pompeu Fabra.

MONIKA SCHLACHTER-VOLL

Monika.Schlachter@uni-trier.de Institute for Labour Law and Industrial Relations in the EU/ Trier Uni.

Monika Schlachter-Voll, Director of the Institute for Labour Law and Industrial Relations in the EU (IAAEU) and Professor of Civil Law, Labour Law and Private International Law at the University of Trier since 1st October 2008. In 2011 she was awarded the honorary doctorate from the University of Miskolc (Hungary) and in 2021 from the University of Pécs (Hungary). In 2021, she received the Bob Hepple Award for Lifetime Achievements from the Labour Law Research Network. From 2006 to 2018, she was a member and Vice-President of the European Committee of Social Rights of the Council of Europe.

NATALIE SEDACCA

natalie.m.sedacca@durham.ac.uk
Durham University

Natalie has been Assistant Professor in Employment Law at Durham Law School, UK, since September 2022, having previously taught at University College London, Exeter and Queen Mary University of London. Natalie's research focuses on human rights and labour law, with a particular interest in marginalised workers such as domestic, care, agricultural, and 'gig economy' workers, and in issues of gender and migration. Natalie is a trustee for the domestic worker NGO Kalayaan and joint convenor for the Labour Law section of the Society of Legal Scholars. Before entering academia, Natalie spent nine years in legal practice specialising in civil liberties.

NIKLAS SELBERG

niklas.selberg@jur.lu.se
Faculty of Law, Lund University

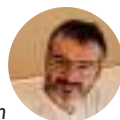

(no bio provided)

IACOPO SENATORI

iacopo.senatori@unimore.it

University of Modena and Reggio Emilia; Marco Biagi Foundation

Assistant Professor of Labour Law at the University of Modena and Reggio Emilia. He received a PhD in Labour Law and Industrial Relations at the University of Bologna. Member of the Academic Advisory Board of the Marco Biagi Foundation, University of Modena and Reggio Emilia; Coordinator of the Labour Law Area in the PhD Programme of Labour, Development and Innovation at the University of Modena and Reggio Emilia His research interests include EU Labour Law, freedom of association and collective bargaining, equality and well-being, law & tech and the regulation of new forms of work.

JEAN MICHEL SERVAIS

(no e-mail provided)

International Society for Labour Law and Social Security

Doctor in Law (University of Liège, Belgium). Doctor honoris causa (University Attila József, Szeged). Former Director of the International Labour Office (ILO). Honorary President of the International Society for Labour Law and Social Security. Visiting Professor at the Faculties of Law of the Universities of Liege (1993-2015) and Gerona (2005 till now). Associate member of COMPTRASEC (Bordeaux). Member of the scientific committee of several reviews. Author of numerous books and articles in the field of international and comparative labour law and industrial relations. They have been published in French, English, Spanish, Bulgarian, German, Portuguese, Japanese, Russian and Greek.

HILA SHAMIR

hshamir@tauex.tau.ac.il

Tel Aviv University Faculty of Law

Hila Shamir is a Law Professor at Tel-Aviv University and the Principal Investigator (PI) of TraffLab: Labor Perspectives to Human Trafficking a research group she established with a European Research Commission (ERC) grant she received in 2018. She teaches and researches in the fields of Employment, Labor, Immigration, and Welfare Law with a focus on issues of labor trafficking, and gender equality. Her recent research on sex work, labor rights and labor trafficking appears in UCLA Law Review, International Journal of Gender, Sexuality and the Law, Theoretical Inquiries in Law and Journal of Modern Slavery, and Cornell International Law Journal.

ANJALI SHARMA

9193728an@gmail.com

Tel Aviv University, Israel & RMIT University, Australia

Completed her M.A. Development Studies from Ambedkar University, Delhi. Presently working on the transferability of the Mathadi Model in Maharashtra as a research fellow with Trafflab and RMIT University, is a part-time fellow with SAAPE (understanding the realm of Social Security in South Asia) and an illustrator.

ZAKARIA SHVELIDZE

(no e-mail provided)

Tbilisi State University, Faculty of Law

Dr. Zakaria Shvelidze graduated from Ivane Javakishvili Tbilisi State University, Faculty of Law, where he also obtained his PhD in Law, and continues his academic research and lecturing in the field of labour law. He completed his visiting scholarship in the 2009 Fall Semester in the University of Washington, School of Law, Seattle, USA, in the research field of Employment Discrimination Law. As the national consultant, from 2014, Zakaria has been engaged in various activities of the ILO project in Georgia.

MICHAEL SIX SILBERMAN

(no e-mail provided)

University of Oxford

Six Silberman is a Postdoctoral Researcher at the Bonavero Institute of Human Rights (University of Oxford), contributing to research on regulating algorithmic management. Silberman has previously been a software engineer and trade union official, and was co-founder with Lilly Irani of Turkopticon, a client reputation system used by workers on Amazon's 'Mechanical Turk' crowdsourcing platform.

YANA SIMUTINA

yana.simutina@gmail.com
University of Bristol

YANA SIMUTINA is a Senior Research Fellow at Koretsky Institute of State and Law of the National Academy of Sciences of Ukraine and a Visiting Professor at the University of Bristol Law School. Her research interests encompass labour and social rights, non-standard forms of work, and the scope of labour law in the gig economy. She is a member of the Scientific and Advisory Board under the Supreme Court and a national consultant of the Council of Europe in Ukraine. In 2019 she was a member of the working group tasked with drafting a new Labour Code of Ukraine.

ANDREA SITZIA

andrea.sitzia@unipd.it
UDipartimento di Scienze Politiche, Giuridiche e Studi Internazionali, Università degli Studi di Padova

Associate Professor of Labour Law. He teaches labour law and EU labour law at the School of Economics and Political Science at the University of Padua. Author of numerous scientific publications on labour law in national and international journals. His main areas of expertise are procurement, protection of privacy, EU labour law, comparative labour law, prisoner labour, corporate social responsibility, gig economy labour, artificial intelligence. President of the Commission for the Certification of Employment.

METTE SOESTED HEMME

msh@law.au.dk
Aarhus University

Mette Soested Hemme is Assistant Professor at Aarhus University. She is an expert for Denmark in the European Centre of Expertise in the field of employment law. She has published journal articles and books within labour and employment law, including her PhD thesis on dismissal law with particular focus on public employees. Her current research topics include minimum wages, employee protection in case of employer insolvency, and temporary agency workers. She is also currently involved with a cross-disciplinary project on digitalisation and inequality in society.

BERNADETT SOLYMOSI-SZEKERES

bernadett.solymosi-szekeres@uni-miskolc.hu
University of Miskolc

Dr. jur. Bernadett Solymosi-Szekeres PhD is an assistant professor at the Department of Civil Sciences, Faculty of Law, University of Miskolc, Hungary. Her research focuses on the labor law, especially on the precarious workers and equality issues. She also analyses other dogmatic questions of the changing social and labor law, like the digital workplace, or the new challenges of work. She is working as a mediator at Labor Advisory and Dispute Resolution Service and she is a member of the international project called Gender Equality Programme in Academia - Raising Diversity [GEPARD].

FLAVIA SOUZA MÁXIMO PEREIRA

flavia.pereira@ufop.edu.br
Universidade Federal de Ouro Preto

Ph.D., Labor Law, Università degli Studi di Roma - Tor Vergata in Tutelle Agreement with Universidade Federal de Minas Gerais, Brazil. Associate Professor, Labour Law and Social Security Department, Universidade Federal de Ouro Preto, Brazil. Coordinator of the “Ressaber” Research Group - Studies on Decolonial Knowledge at Universidade Federal de Ouro Preto, Brazil. Researcher of the international female network “Democratizing Work”. Occupies the position of Ombudsman at Universidade Federal de Ouro Preto, destined to receive complaints of gender violence from the university. She develops research especially in the right to strike, gender studies and decoloniality in labor relations.

EMILY SPIELER

e.spieler@northeastern.edu
Northeastern University

Professor Emily Spieler (Northeastern University School of Law, Boston, Massachusetts) is an expert on work law, with a particular focus on workplace safety. She recently authored Occupational Safety and Health, Essential Workers, and the COVID-19 Pandemic in the U.S., and was a member of the drafting committee of the ILO Report, OSH and the COVID-19 pandemic: A legal analysis. She has served on numerous committees, including as chair of the Scientific Advisory Committee to the Institute for Work and Health (Toronto); the Whistleblower Protection Advisory Committee (U.S. Department of Labor); and the Worker Advocacy Advisory Committee (U.S. Department

CARLA SPINELLI

carla.spinelli@uniba.it University Aldo Moro of Bari

Carla Spinelli, Ph.D, Full Professor of Labour Law, University Aldo Moro of Bari. She teaches Labour law and EU social law. Member of scientific committee of Italian Labour Law Journal Diritti, lavori, mercati; Rivista giuridica del lavoro. Head of local unit or participant in research projects on Labour law and European labour law. Speaker at many scientific conferences, national and international. Author of many articles and essays published in Italian and in English in national and international collective volumes and journals. She published two books and co-edited two books. Main research interests: digital economy; antidiscrimination law; work-life balance; public sector

JELENA STARCEVIC

starcej@mcmaster.ca
Jelena Starcevic

Jelena Starcevic holds a bachelor's degree in law from the University of Belgrade (Serbia), MA in Peace and Justice from the University of San Diego (USA) and is currently pursuing doctoral degree at the School of Labour Studies at McMaster University (Canada). She has extensive professional experience in areas of occupational health and safety, employment of vulnerable groups, labour standards and labour mobility having worked for Serbian Employers' Organization, International Labour Organization, and the Government of Serbia. Her current research focus is on the future of work and the effects of digitalization on the labour market institutions and participants.

KRZYSZTOF STEFANSKI

kstefanski@wpia.uni.lodz.pl
University of Lodz

Associate professor at the Labour Law Department at the Faculty of Law and Administration of the University of Lodz (Poland). Director of the Postgraduate Studies on Personal Data Protection at the University of Lodz. Team Coordinator - AI Work Team - The research team for conducting studies on the consequences of the development of artificial intelligence and other modern technologies for the labour market, labour law and social insurance. Specialist in labour law with a special focus on working time, termination of the contract of employment and employment in public administration.

MARC STEIERT

marc.steiert@eui.eu
European University Institute

Marc Steiert is a Ph.D. Candidate in EU Law at the European University Institute (Florence, Italy) working on the EU's regulatory framework for youth employment and its development from 1957 until today. He is co-editor of The Charter of Fundamental Rights of the European Union: the 'travaux préparatoires' and selected documents and has published in the area of EU labour and social law.

CHARALAMPOS STYLOGIANNIS

ch.stylogiannis@gmail.com
Institute for Labour Law, KU Leuven

Charalampos STYLOGIANNIS is at the final stage of his PhD research at KU Leuven. He obtained his B.Sc. at the Kapodistrian University of Athens in the field of Political Science and Public Administration. He also obtained an LL.B at the University of Sussex and his LL.M at the University College London (UCL), in the United Kingdom. He worked as an intern in the Office of the High Commissioner for Human Rights (OHCHR), and in the International Labour Organization (ILO). He has worked as an external consultant for the ILO, as well as other organizations.

ZELINA SULTANA

zelina@law.jnu.ac.bd Jagannath University, Dhaka

Zelina Sultana is presently doing her PhD under the school of Economics, Finance and law, Faculty of Business and law at Anglia Ruskin University, Cambridge, UK and Associate professor (Study leave), Department of Law, Jagannath University, Dhaka, Bangladesh. Since 2007, she has been in the teaching profession in many renowned private and public universities of Bangladesh and taught in undergraduate and postgraduate levels. She has been successfully completed many national and international training on legal, social science research method, environmental law teaching and research. Her research articles have been published in international and national renowned journals.

BARBARA SURDYKOWSKA

b.surdykowska@solidarnosc.org.pl
 NSZZ Solidarność

Barbara Surdykowska is a legal advisor at the Expert Office of the National Commission NSZZ Solidarność trade union. She works as an expert at the Institute of Public Affairs and CASE (Center for Social and Economic Analysis). Among other issues, she deals with social security for workers, collective bargaining and the transnational dimension of industrial relations. She was a representative of Polish trade unions in the European social partners negotiation concerning the digitization of the working environment. She is an expert in the Social Dialogue Council.

ELENA SYCHENKO

(no e-mail provided)
 University of Bologna

Elena Sychenko PhD, Adjunct Professor University of Bologna Visiting professor, University of Trento She received her PhD degree from the University of Catania in 2016, a master degree with honours from Saint Petersburg State University in 2004. Her interests include the following topics: human rights instruments for the protection of workers' rights, forced labour, employee's dignity, and protection from harassment.

CSABA SZABO

szabocsaba85@yahoo.com
 Central European Academy in collaboration with University of Miskolc

My name is Szabó Csaba I did my bachelor's and my master's studies in Romania, specializing during my masters' studies in European Unions' private law. Currently, I am a Ph.D. student in Hungary at the University of Miskolc and an employed researcher at the Central European Academy, My main field of interest is labor law and Social Security Law. The topic of my Ph.D. thesis is The Social Security Rights of Platform Workers in Hungary, Romania, and Slovakia.

BOLDIZSÁR SZENTGÁLI-TÓTH

totboldi@gmail.com
 Centre for Social Sciences

Boldizsár Szentgáli-Tóth is a senior research fellow at the Center for Social Sciences, Institute for Legal Studies. He obtained his Ph.D. degree in February 2019. He has published several articles in different constitutional law fields. He took part in several research projects. He is the leader and participant of more research project. At the same time, while he has also presented the outcome of his researches several times in Hungary and even elsewhere in Europe more than thirty times. He has been awarded various prizes from the past years. He serves also as the managing editor or editor of more legal reviews.

PETER SZILADI

(no e-mail provided)
 Independent attorney-at-law, Bird & Bird Budapest

Dr. Sziladi is a Consultant in Bird & Bird's Budapest office, where he deals with employment, IT/DP matters. Dr. Sziládi graduated in 2019 and is member of the Pest County Bar from 2023. In 2017, he was an Erasmus exchange student at the Faculty of Law of Ruprecht Karl University of Heidelberg, where he worked on a data protection research project. In 2018, Dr. Sziládi also participated in the Price Media Law Moot Court Competition, in which he was awarded the Best Oralist prize in the regional rounds and reached the Octo-Finals with his teammates at Oxford.

MICHAŁ SZYPNIEWSKI

michal.szypniewski@prawo.ug.edu.pl
 University of Gdańsk

Michał Szypniewski, PhD - practicing lawyer specializing in in labor law, assistant professor at the Department of Labor Law at the University of Gdańsk, recognized expert and practitioner in the field of the EU labour mobility.

SIMON TAES

simon.taes@kuleuven.be
KU Leuven

Simon Taes is a PhD candidate at the Institute for Labour Law (KU Leuven – Belgium). He examines the impact of robotization and artificial intelligence on several areas of labour law, including the right to privacy and occupational health & safety. He obtained a Master's degree in psychology (specialization in labour and occupational psychology) and Master's degree in Law (specialization in social and economic law). Since September 2022, he has also been providing legal advice to the Belgian government regarding the development of Individual Learning Accounts.

HISASHI TAKEUCHI

hisashi_to@waseda.jp
Waseda University

Hisashi Takeuchi (appearing as Hisashi Takeuchi-Okuno in publications) is a professor of labor and employment Law at Waseda University, Japan. His recent research topics include the definition of employee (worker misclassification problems) and the relation between labor law and competition law.

DAVIDE TARDIVO

davide.tardivo@unipd.it University of Padova

Researcher in Labour Law at Padova University Ph.D., Labour Lawyer

GAABRIEL TAVITS

gaabriel.tavits@ut.ee
UNIVERSITY OF TARTU

G.Tavits has graduated University of Tartu, Estonia in 1994. Since then he was involved in research and teaching the labour law and social security law. Since 2005 he is member of the European labour law restatement network. This network has studied different aspects of labour law. During last decade he has also been national expert in the European Labour Law Network. The tasks were involved with preparing different thematic report on application of the European Union directives in Estonia, also delivering monthly basis the important development in Estonian labour law.

MARIANA TEIXEIRA MURATORI

marianateixeiramuratori@hotmail.com
Federal University of Minas Gerais (UFMG)

Mariana Teixeira Muratori is a student at the Federal University of Minas Gerais (UFMG). She has been working for two years as an intern at the Slave Labor and Human Trafficking Clinic (CTETP) at UFMG, offering free legal assistance to the victims of these crimes. In addition, she is a researcher for the project "Statistical and socioeconomic analysis regarding the inspection of slavery analogous work in the state of Minas Gerais/ Brazil", which is developed in partnership between the CTETP and the Brazilian Public Ministry of Labor.

BERYL TER HAAR

b.terhaar@uw.edu.pl
CIELLS / University of Warsaw

Beryl ter Haar is UW Professor and Head of the Centre for International and European Labour Law Studies (CIELLS) at the University of Warsaw and Endowed Professor European and Comparative Labour Law at the University of Groningen. In general her research deals with international and European labour law, especially new governance, transnational private regulation, and the changing world of work due to digitalization, climate change, resource shortages and socio-economic paradigm shifts. Her research is published in numerous Dutch, Polish, and international journals and she has edited a number of books. She is co-initiator of the Hugo Sinzheimer Moot Court Competition.

CELINE TEYSSIER

celine.teyssier@icloud.com

European Research and Documentation Center of Pau and Pays de l'Adour University Céline Teyssier is a Doctor of Law and a member of the European Research and Documentation Center of Pau and Pays de l'Adour University (CDRE – E.A 3004 et label CDE). She is a member of the Artificial Intelligence Cross-border Network. Her main research fields are occupational health, data protection and AI in the workplace. Her research projects are part of the study of a legal framework adapted to the challenges of technological development.

JOO-CHEONG THAM

j.tham@unimelb.edu.au

Joo-Cheong Tham

Joo-Cheong Tham is a Professor at Melbourne Law School with expertise in labour law and public law. His labour law research has extended to the regulation of precarious work and labour protection under trade agreements; his current work focusses on labour law and the climate crisis. His recent labour law publications include co-edited collections on Democracy, Social Justice and the Role of Trade Unions and Global Labor Migrations: New Directions. Joo-Cheong is also the Victorian Assistant Secretary (Academic Staff) for the Australian National Tertiary Education Union. His public law research centres upon law and democracy with emphasis on money in politics.

INGA THIEMANN

i.k.thiemann@exeter.ac.uk

University of Exeter

Dr Inga Thiemann is a Senior Lecturer in Law at University of Exeter, United Kingdom. Her socio-legal research focuses on the intersections of employment law, criminal law, migration law, discrimination law and feminist theory. She has a particular interest in marginalised workers, feminised sectors of work and in issues of gender and migration, as well as the devaluation of feminised labour, and labour approaches to sex work. Inga has published in various leading journals, including the Industrial Law Journal, the International Journal of Comparative Labour Law and Industrial Relations and the Anti-Trafficking Review.

ROHINI THYAGARAJAN

(no e-mail provided)

High Court of Bombay

Rohini Thyagarajan is an independent scholar and a lawyer practicing primarily in the areas of labour and service law at the High Court of Bombay and in the Industrial Courts in Mumbai and Thane, India. In August 2019, she graduated with an integrated Bachelor of Arts and Law [B.A., LLB (Hons.)] degree from Jindal Global Law School, Jindal Global University, after which she clerked with Justice Dr. S. Muralidhar at the High Court of Delhi and the High Court of Punjab and Haryana in Chandigarh. Her principal areas of interest are labour history, history of labour law and constitutional law.

ADRIÁN TODOLÍ SIGNES

adrian.todoli@uv.es

Adrián Todolí Signes

Dr. Adrián Todolí-Signes is a full professor of Labor Law at the University of Valencia. Degree in Economics and Law. He has published more than a hundred academic outcomes (including articles in peer-reviewed journals, book chapters, edited books and monographs). He has extensive experience in Regulating the Digital Economy from a legal and economic perspective. He has published several articles in international journals and a books on Platform work and algorithmic management and has been invited to give lectures in platform economy at universities in several countries and at international startup forums.

HIROYO TOKORO

tokoro@fukuoka-u.ac.jp

Fukuoka University

A native of Hokkaido, Professor Tokoro worked for NTT Group, a leading telecommunications company, prior to joining Fukuoka University Faculty of Law in 2014. She lectures on Japanese labor and employment law. Professor Tokoro is an active member of the Fukuoka Labor Relations Commission, a Ministry of Health, Labor and Welfare mediator, and since 2022, the chairperson of the Fukuoka Labor Policy Council. Her interest in workplace inclusion matters and gender and disability discrimination has led Professor Tokoro to pursue comparative studies of Canadian and American labor and employment law issues.

PAOLO TOMASSETTI

paolo.tomassetti@unimi.it
University of Milan

Paolo Tomassetti is Assistant Professor in Labour Law at the University of Milan and Associate Researcher at the European Trade Union Institute (ETUI). Before joining the University of Milan and the ETUI, Paolo was Marie Skłodowska-Curie Research Fellow at Aix-Marseille University. His research focuses on how to make labour law more responsive to contemporary societal needs, including those concerned with climate change and the energy transition.

LISA TORTELL

tortell@ilo.org
International Labour Office

Lisa Tortell studied law at Victoria University of Wellington (New Zealand) and the University of Oxford (United Kingdom). She has worked as a Judge's Clerk to the Chief Justice of New Zealand, an Assistant Crown Counsel at the New Zealand Crown Law Office, and a Research Fellow at the DINAMIA Research Centre for Socio-Economic Change in Portugal. Since 2019 she has worked at the ILO in various roles. Currently, she is a Legal Specialist in the International Labour Standards Department, coordinating the Office's support to the Standards Review Mechanism Tripartite Working Group.

TRANG TRAN

Trang.tran2@monash.edu
Monash University

Trang Tran is a lecturer in Labour Law at Hanoi Law University, Vietnam and a PhD candidate at Monash University, Australia. Her research focuses on labour dispute resolution, collective bargaining and workers representative organisations in Vietnam.

ANNE TREBILCOCK

(no e-mail provided)
University of Göttingen

Associated with the Institute for Labour Law, University of Göttingen, Germany; former ILO Legal Adviser/Director of Legal Services and earlier ILO posts; serving as a neutral for dispute resolution in international organizations.

YUSUKE TSUNEMORI

project-y1@y.asagi.waseda.jp
Tokyo Keizai University

Yusuke Tsunemori is an assistant professor of Social Welfare Law at Tokyo Keizai University. His work focuses on the public child care services and housing policy.

ERIC TUCKER

etucker@yorku.ca
Osgoode Hall Law School, York University

Eric Tucker is a Professor Emeritus, Osgoode Hall Law School, York University. His research covers a broad array of labour and employment law areas including occupational health and safety, constitutional labour rights and labour migration. He has authored and co-authored several books on the history of Canadian labour and employment law as well as edited and co-edited volumes. He has recently written several articles on platform mediated work. Professor Tucker writes from a Marxist political economy perspective and seeks to explore the role of law as a contested site that shapes and is shaped by class.

BANU UCKAN HEKIMLER

buckan@anadolu.edu.tr
ANADOLU UNIVERSITY

She is a full professor at Anadolu University, Department of Labour Economics and Industrial Relations, in Turkey. She is particularly interested in industrial relations and trade unionism.

DANIEL ULBER

daniel.ulber@jura.uni-halle.de Martin-Luther-Universität Halle-Wittenberg, Germany

Prof. Dr. Daniel Ulber is Professor of law and holder of the chair for Civil Law, Company Law and Labour Law at the Martin Luther University Halle-Wittenberg. He has been research assistant at the German Constitutional Court (BVerfG) as well as the Institute for German and European Labour and Social Law at the University of Cologne. In 2016, he was awarded the Hans Kelsen Prize for junior researchers by the University of Cologne. His research and publishing focus lies on Collective Bargaining Law, European Labour Law and Constitutional Law.

JOANNA UNTERSCHUETZ

joanna.unterschuetz@kadra.wsaib.pl
Wyższa Szkoła Administracji i Biznesu w Gdyni

Joanna Unterschütz, PhD, Associate Professor at the E. Kwiatkowski School of Administration and Business in Gdynia. Her diverse scientific interests focus on the protection of fundamental rights, collective labour law, issues of criminal law protection of labour rights, forced labour and human trafficking as well as connection between law and visual arts. She is a member of the Transnational Trade Union Rights Experts Network (TTUR), member of the Advisory Board of Electronics Watch and Associated Senior Expert in the Polish Institute for Human Rights and Business.

VALÉRIE VAN GOETHEM

vangoethem@ilo.org
Valérie Van Goethem

Valérie Van Goethem is a Labour Law Specialist in the Labour Law and Reform Unit (ILO, Geneva). Her main areas of expertise relate to national labour law reforms and labour dispute prevention and resolution systems. Over the last 10 years, she was involved in various ILO development cooperation projects, comparative research and trainings in the areas of freedom of association, social dialogue, labour law and access to labour justice.

MATTHIJS VAN SCHADEWIJK

matthijs.vanschadewijk@ru.nl
Radboud University

Dr. M.A.N. (Matthijs) van Schadewijk works as an Assistant Professor Labour Law at Radboud University, the Netherlands. In his research, Matthijs mainly focuses on sustainable employment, cross-border labour, the interface between employment law and corporate law and the interaction between national and European law. Early 2023, Matthijs defended his PhD on corporate groups in employment law. Central in his PhD is the question as to how the approach to corporate groups in employment law relates to legal unity: the basic principle that legal rules and concepts should be applied in the same way wherever possible.

SAMANTHA VELLUTI

smv25@sussex.ac.uk
University of Sussex

LL.B (Hons) (La Sapienza, Rome, Italy); LL.M in European Law (University of Nottingham, UK); Ph.D in EU Law (University of Nottingham, UK). Main research expertise: EU law and policy with a specific interest in human rights and social trade. Latest research monograph: 'The Role of the EU in the Promotion of Human Rights and International Labour Standards in its External Trade Relations' (with contributions from Dr Martines - Springer 2020).

FOTIS VERGIS

fv237@cam.ac.uk

Gonville and Caius, University of Cambridge

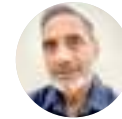

Fotis is Lecturer and Fellow in Law at Gonville & Caius, University of Cambridge, where he teaches Labour Law, Constitutional Law & EU Law. He was previously Lecturer in Law at the University of Manchester and a barrister in Greece. His PhD thesis, researched at the University of Cambridge, was runner-up for the 2023 Brian Bercusson Award. Recent research outputs include work on collective labour law, including digital aspects thereof, migrant workers and EU law, and gig work. He sits at the Editorial Board of the Greek Labour Law Review (EERG) and on the Scientific Committee of the Moving Labour Collective.

ANIL VERMA

anil.verma@rotman.utoronto.ca

University of Toronto

Dr. Anil Verma, Professor Emeritus, University of Toronto. Director, Centre for IR & HR, 2009-15. Taught previously: University of California, Los Angeles, the University of British Columbia, University of Saskatchewan. He has taught by invitation in Vietnam, Brazil, Russia, India, China and Thailand. PhD (MIT), MBA (Sask), B. Tech (IIT, Kanpur, India). Chair, Minimum Wage Advisory Panel, 2013-14, Government of Ontario. Visiting Professor, Middlesex University Business School (UK), 2005-2010. President, Canadian Industrial Relations Association; Member, Executive Board, ILERA. Member, Advisory Committee on Labour and Income Statistics at Statistics Canada (1993-2015). Member, Board of Directors, COSTI Immigration Services, 2006-15.

JEFFREY VOGT

jvogt@solidaritycenter.org

Solidarity Center / ILAW Network

Jeff Vogt is the Rule of Law Director of the Solidarity Center and co-founder of the International Lawyers Assisting Workers (ILAW) Network, which brings together over 1,000 worker rights lawyers from around the globe. In 2022, Jeff also was appointed to the International Labor Organization's (ILO) Governing Body and serves on the ILO Committee on Freedom of Association. Previously, he was the Legal Director of the International Trade Union Confederation (ITUC) and Deputy International Director of the AFL-CIO. Jeff has published on the intersection of labor rights and trade, and on the right to strike, among other topics.

ELENA VOLK

elena.a.volk@mail.ru

Higher Educational Establishment of the Federation of Trade Unions of Belarus "International University "MITSO"

I am a Professor of the Department of Civil Law Disciplines and Trade Union Work of the Higher Educational Establishment of the Federation of Trade Unions of Belarus "International University "MITSO" and have a PhD in Law. I am the author of more than 160 publications. Deputy Editor-in-Chief of the journal 'Labour and Social Law' (Belarus), Secretary of the public association "Community of Labour Law"

MARLESE VON BROEMBSSEN

marlese.vonbroembsen@wiego.org

Marlese Von Broembsen

Marlese von Broembsen is the Law Programme Director at Women in Informal Employment: Globalizing and Organizing (WIEGO). She holds law degrees from the University of Cape Town (UCT) and Harvard Law School and an M.A. in Development Studies. Prior to joining WIEGO, Marlese convened a Master's Programme in Social Justice in the Faculty of Law Faculty, UCT and from 2015-17 was a Visiting Researcher at the Institute for Global Law and Policy, Harvard Law School. Marlese publishes on labour law and development; labour law and supply chains; labour law and informal employment. Her PhD thesis is on collective bargaining.

MANFRED WEISS

M.Weiss@jur.uni-frankfurt.de

Goethe University Frankfurt / Germany

born 1940, Full Professor of Labour Law and Civil Law first at the University of Hamburg from 1974 - 1977 at the University of Hamburg and from 1977 - 2008 at the Goethe University in Frankfurt. Many visiting professorships all over the world. President of ILERA from 2000 to 2003. Consultant of ILO and EU, many ILO missions. Recipient of the LLRN award.

MARLEY WEISS

mweiss@law.umaryland.edu

University of Maryland Carey School of Law

Marley Weiss, B.A., Barnard College, J.D., Harvard Law School, practiced labor law with the UAW, and since then, has become Professor of Law at University of Maryland Carey School of Law. She also has taught at ELTE and at CEU in Budapest, Hungary. She was awarded the Paul Steven Miller Scholarship Award for her scholarship and leadership in the field. Her research focuses on international and comparative labor law and equality law, labor effects of transnational integration and cross-border labor migration. She is Co-PI on a major interdisciplinary project regarding the Covid-19 related effects of structural racism on American farmworkers.

KATARZYNA WEŁPA

katarzyna.welpa@edu.uni.lodz.pl

Uniwersytet Łódzki

Katarzyna Wełpa graduated in 2021 at the Faculty of Law and Administration of the University of Lodz by presenting master this entitled "On-call work as a type of untypical employment". In 2022 she the began education at the Doctoral School of Social Sciences at the University of Lodz where she is pursuing dissertation on working time reduction. Her research interests include working time, atypical and flexible forms of employment, as well as changes in the labour market caused by technology and globalization.

ANNAMARIA WESTREGÅRD

annamaria.westregard@har.lu.se

My research interests are Personal Privacy and the Workplace, drug testing and rehabilitation, self-employment, crowdworkers in GIG economy.

IVAN WILLIAMS JIMENEZ

ivan.williams@iosh.com

Independent researcher

Dr Iván Williams Jiménez is a Policy development manager at the Institution of Occupational Safety and Health where he leads on global regulatory-related advocacy on occupational safety and health, workplace wellbeing, sustainable corporate governance, social sustainability and decent work in order to maximise IOSH's impact and influence on global policy and practice.

PATRICK WITZAK

Patrick.Witzak@rub.de

Ruhr University Bochum

Patrick Witzak is a postdoctoral researcher at the professorship for Sociology of the Digital Transformation at the Ruhr University Bochum. He graduated with a Bachelor of Arts degree in Sociology from the University of Duisburg-Essen. With the support of the Hans-Böckler-Foundation he completed a Master of Arts degree in Sociology at the University of Duisburg-Essen. Afterwards, Patrick completed his PhD at the Chair of Sociology with a focus on Comparative Sociology at the University of Duisburg-Essen under the supervision of Prof. Dr. Sigrid Quack and Prof. Dr. Markus Hertwig with a PhD scholarship from the Hans Böckler Foundation.

MATHIAS WOUTERS

mathias.wouters@isdc-dfjp.unil.ch
Swiss Institute for Comparative Law

Dr. Mathias Wouters. He studied at KU Leuven (University of Leuven), Belgium, focusing on labour law in particular. His academic work covers various topics, such as platform work, cyberbullying, artificial intelligence, new forms of work and telework. In 2018, Mr Wouters spent time at the International Labor Organization, partly due to his doctoral research on International Labor Standards and Platform Work. He joined the Swiss Institute for Comparative Law after a short-term involvement in legal practice for Baker McKenzie.

MARCIN WUJCZYK

marcin.wujczyk@uj.edu.pl
Jagiellonian University of Cracow

Marcin Wujczyk works as an Associate Professor at the Department of Labour Law and Social Policy of the Jagiellonian University. He was a member of the European Committee of Social Rights of the Council of Europe between 2013-2018. He is a deputy editor of Studies in Labour Law and Social Policy. He is an expert on labour law and author of a number of publications on employment and labour law. He is also an attorney at law.

IVAN YATSKEVYCH

ivan.yatskevych@ukma.edu.ua
Center for Interdisciplinary Labour Law Studies

Dr. Ivan Yatskevych, PhD Visiting researcher at Center for Interdisciplinary Labour Law Studies (European University Viadrina) Associate Professor of Labour Law at Department of Private Law (National University of Kyiv-Mohyla Academy) Executive Secretary of NaUKMA Research Papers. Law journal <https://orcid.org/0000-0002-9734-0671>

HELENA YSAS-MOLINERO

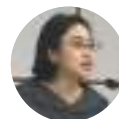

helena.ysas@uab.cat
Universitat Aut_noma de Barcelona

Lecturer in Labour Law at Universitat Aut_noma de Barcelona (Spain) and secretary to the Institute for Labour Studies (IET-UAB). She is currently researching in emerging technologies, employer control powers and fundamental rights. Other research interests include social dialogue and social partners' participation in regulatory functions as well as employee representation structures in companies, with a focus on shortfalls particularly affecting decentralised production structures.

AELIM YUN

aelimyun@hotmail.com
Institute of Workers' Rights

Aelim Yun is the Acting Director of Institute of Workers' Rights. She is an Advisory Committee Member at the National Human Rights Commission of Korea, and a Public Interest Commissioner at the Seoul Regional Labour Relations Commission. She has been a Steering Committee member at the Labour Law Research Network since 2021. She was a Visiting Scholar at the International Institute of Labour Studies of the ILO in 2006, and a Guest Researcher at the European Trade Union Institute in 2007. Her research programme centres on precarious employment and workers organizing, for extending labour rights and social protection.

AGNIESZKA ZWOLIŃSKA

a.zwolinska@wpia.uw.edu.pl
University of Warsaw

assistant professor at the Department of Labour Law and Social Policy Faculty of Law and Administration, University of Warsaw; assistant specialist for jurisprudence at the Labour and Social Security Chamber, the Supreme Court of the Republic of Poland; attorney-at-law specialising at labour law and industrial relations, mediator, coach of award-winning student teams in the international competition The Hugo Sinzheimer Moot Court Competition

REBECCA ZAHN

rebecca.zahn@strath.ac.uk
University of Strathclyde

Rebecca Zahn is Reader in Law at the University of Strathclyde, Glasgow, UK where she specialises in European, national and comparative labour law. She is currently working on a project, funded by a Leverhulme Research Fellowship, entitled 'Revealing the Importance of Ideas: The Intellectual History of Labour Law'.

ANIA ZBYSZEWSKA

ania.zbyszewska@carleton.ca
Carleton University

Ania Zbyszewska is an Assistant Professor in Law and Work in the Department of Law and Legal Studies at Carleton University in Ottawa, Canada. Her interdisciplinary, socio-legal research focuses on regulation of work as a socio-ecological process, and engages with critical, feminist, and political economy and ecology approaches to re/consider the interface of work and environmental regulation and explore possibilities of regulatory alternatives that facilitate more sustainable work and livelihoods.

NUNA ZEKIĆ

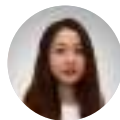

(no e-mail provided)
University of Amsterdam

Dr. Nuna Zekić is associate professor at the University of Amsterdam (AIAS/HSI), the Netherlands. Her expertise lies in the area of labour law and more precisely, dismissal law, flexible working arrangements, and collective bargaining. She has been associate professor at Tilburg University (the Netherlands) and a visiting fellow at University of California Los Angeles (UCLA), Lund University in Sweden and European University Institute (EUI) in Italy.

JIAQI ZENG

j.z.zeng@vu.nl
Vrije University Amsterdam

Jiaqi Zeng is a PhD student specialising in International Labour Law at the Social Law Department, Faculty of Law, Vrije University Amsterdam. Her research focuses on regulating platform work and the international supply chain of service. She previously obtained her bachelor's degree in Law from the Zhongnan University of Economics and Law, China and her master's degree in Human Rights Law from University College London, the UK. She was an exchange student at the University of Trento, Italy, and a visiting scholar at the Center for International and European Labour Law Studies, Poland.

ANNA ZILLI

ANNA.ZILLI@UNIUD.IT
University of Udine

Anna Zilli is Associate Professor at the University of Udine, IT. Author of several books and essays, Anna is the Editor of EQUAL, the Italian website on Antidiscrimination Law

LOUIE ZREIK

zreik.louie.law.office@gmail.com
Lomonosov Moscow state university

Louie Zreik is a Christian Arab, from Elaboun village in Israel . He is an attorney with a PHD in law from Lomonosov Moscow State University, who runs a leading law office specializing in Labor Law. He acted as a legal advisor to the Histadrut (general federation of labour) in Israel for 18 years. Since then he has served as a legal advisor to several local authorities. Dr Zreik has won several precedents on various issues and has published several professional articles in Israel and worldwide. He also participated in enomorous international conferences as a sought-after speaker.